county area. The gathering is one attempt by the Democratic Central Committee to bring all Democrats "back together" before the November general election.

700 turn out for Alan Dixon

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer
About 700 Democrats jammed Charlie's Restaurant Monday evening for a fund-raising rally to aid Secretary of State Alan Dixon.

Dixon brought with him several other state candidates, including Richard Troy, attorney general candidate;

Roland Burris, comptroller candidate, Jerome Cosentino, state treasurer hopeful, and Alex Seith, candidate for U.S. senator.

The event was the largest Democratic gathering since before the primary elections and was the first organized by the new Madison County Democratic Central Committee.

Chairman Christ Costoff, 67, Madison. "We are very pleased with this turnout," Costoff said of the elbow-to-elbow crowd of Democrats who paid $25 a ticket for the honor to be there and for drinks and hors d'oeuvres. The event attracted Democrats from a four-county area, including many from St.

Clair County, including Francis Touchette, a St. Clair County Democratic leader; members of the Metro-East Sanitary District board, and others. It also attracted most area mayors, township supervisors, state representatives and senators, County Board members and officials, and other Democratic officials, both elected and appointed.

Conspicuous by his absence was State Rep. Joe Lucco of Edwardsville, who lost the party's bid for renomination in March, and who plans to run in the November general election as an independent.

"Tonight is for Democrats and we are going to support the Democratic ticket in November," Costoff stated. He said Lucco "would have been welcomed, had he appeared, but noted the state legislature was in session in Springfield."

Scout camp will mark 25th year

By "MICK" STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer
Ceremonies marking the 25th anniversary at Boy Scout Camp Sunnen, near Potosi, Mo., will be held Sunday at 5 p.m. on the camp grounds.

Since the camp began operation in June 1953, more than 15,000 Scouts and leaders have attended week-long camping adventures at Sunnen. Sunnen is operated by the Cahokia Mound Council, Boy Scouts of America, which is comprised of the southern half of Madison County and all of Bond County.

Former campers and the public are invited to attend the ceremonies and visit the camp Sunday, according to Henry D. Karandeff and G. Rollin Henn, co-chairmen of the silver anniversary program.

Special guests attending will include members of the Joseph Sunnen family, Sunnen Products Co. executives, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson, former scout executive; Roy Condon, director of Trout Lodge, and other St. Louis YMCA executives.

Camp Sunnen is located in the northeast section of the Clark

Court tells church 'operate as usual'

By PAT FOLEY
Press-Record Staff Writer
The doors of the Holy Trinity Bulgarian Eastern Orthodox Church, 1300 Grand Ave., Madison, will be open today and the Rev. Peter Stamboldjiev, pastor of the church, will be allowed to conduct services as usual in accordance with a stipulation agreed upon by two attorneys during a hearing before Associate Judge Thomas R. Gibbons yesterday afternoon. The priest had been dismissed by the 23-member church board on June 5. The board, in turn, was dismissed by Bishop Simeon of Akron, Ohio, in a letter prepared over the weekend.

A question was raised by the board's vice-president John Mangoff Jr. as to whether the board had the authority to dismiss the priest, Mangoff objected to the dismissal, saying that the bishop should make such a decision.

The priest was locked out of the church last week by the board members. Several Supreme Court cases were cited by both Nick Vasiliev, attorney for a special commission appointed by the bishop after he dismissed the priest.

Child killed by birdbath

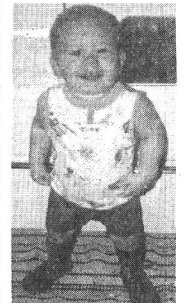

A 2-year-old Granite City boy was injured fatally Tuesday evening when a heavy, concrete birdbath toppled on him while he was playing in the yard of a home at which his parents were visiting.

Steven E. Holmes, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steven (Deborah) Holmes, 2813 Emme Ave., apparently died of a crushed chest as a result of the incident. The child was with his parents who were visiting friends on Dewey Avenue and the boy ran through the yard in play and accidentally bumped into the birdbath, which fell on him.

The boy was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital at 6:25 p.m. Doctors worked with the child until 7:02 p.m. when the boy was pronounced dead. He was born in Granite City.

Survivors include his parents; paternal grandmother, Mrs. Alvonia Holmes of Granite City; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William (Betty) Davis of Granite City; and maternal great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl (Ruby) Stock of San Bernardino, Calif.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Information and referral program on local services being established

The Tri-Cities Area United Way, in cooperation with the Madison County Consortium, Office of Manpower Development, has completed the first phase in constructing a central area information-and-referral program for residents and workers in Granite City, Mitchell, Ponton Beach, Venice and Madison.

The first phase, a "road-map of social services" available to the local community, is the production of a "Directory of Area-Community Services" by the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

Further development will proceed as staff time and other resources permit.

According to United Way staff professionals preparing the document under the direction of Mrs. Barbara Kent, "This directory is published as a community service."

"It is intended to be a basic reference about many tax-supported and voluntarily-financed community services in the Quad-Cities, Madison County and the State of Illinois."

"It is focused at helping these professional and other persons who come into contact with people in trouble — and who need to know about the availability of various kinds of services in order to make effective referrals."

The director lists nearly all organizations with employed staffs and facilities, and which operate functional programs on a scheduled basis.

Profit-making or proprietary services have not been included.

This issue of the directory reflects the services which are available to people in Granite City, Mitchell, Ponton Beach, Madison and Venice.

"Inclusion of an organization in the directory does not imply endorsement by the organization preparing the directory, nor does exclusion indicate disapproval," Mrs. Kent said this week in distributing initial copies.

Partially inaugurated through already existing public community service programs, phase two is an ongoing data collection and distribution program.

Mrs. Kent commented, "The final phase will see activities intended to extend access to the basic United Way Information and Referral Center, including a network of United Way volunteer referral agents in cooperation with local corporations, unions, professionals and other institutions — all concerned with continuing, and building further, the healthy, active and desirable community that now exists."

Contracting firm names GC in suit

A suit against Granite City seeking court judgment of $58,677 as the amount allegedly still due for construction of the city's secondary sewage treatment plant has been filed in circuit court at Edwardsville by the G.L. Tarlton Construction Co. of St. Louis. City Council members were informed last week.

The suit was filed after the city notified the U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. of St. Louis, holders of the G.L. Tarlton firm's performance bond on the treatment plant project, that the city considers the Tarlton firm in default of its contract. City officials have declined to pay the final $55,053 which it owes the contracting firm because of a dispute involving a number of problems with installations made by the contractor at the treatment plant. Some aldermen have proposed using the money to correct the problems which they claim were the responsibility of the contractor.

The contract between the city and Tarlton was executed in August, 1975, on a bid of $100,000, but the total cost increased $361,182 because of change orders. The city has paid all of the amount except the $55,053. The contractor's suit asks for that amount and $3,622 interest, for a total of $58,677.

Workshop on contact with aged parents

A workshop on "Aging and Intergenerational Communication" will be presented at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville on Friday, June 23, from 9 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. in the Mississippi-Illinois Room of the University Center.

The workshop is sponsored by the Gerontology Program at SIUE. Anthony J. Traxler, associate professor of psychology, is director of the program.

Purpose of the workshop is to help adult children understand, care for, and communicate more effectively with their aging parents.

Robert Hawkins, professor of speech communications at SIUE, will present the welcome address. Prof. Traxler will discuss "Basic Physical and Psychological Aspects of Aging."

"The Nature of Dependency Needs, Role Reversal, and Filial Piety" will be covered by Mrs. Roslyn Sykes, instructor in the nursing department at SIUE. Prof. Hawkins will discuss the area of "Basic Interpersonal Communication Skills in Multigeneration Families."

A panel report on representative major psychosocial-communication problems in multigeneration families — followed by small-group discussions of intergenerational family problems and consideration of communication skills as aids in coping with these problems — will be featured in the afternoon sessions.

Fee for the workshop is $12.50 and includes a box lunch. Advance registration is required. Those who can be contacted are Traxler at 692-3454 and Hawkins at 692-3090.

Rail repair to close Route 40

Business Route 40 (formerly FA Route 12) east of Fairmont City will be closed to through-traffic at the Alton and Southern Railway crossing and detoured over Illinois Route 111 and Sand Prairie Lane, for two days, beginning June 20 at 8 a.m. through June 21 at 4 p.m., according to the Illinois Department of Transportation.

The closure is necessary due to the railroad laying of continuous welded rail through the crossings. Signing and traffic control devices will be provided to guide motorists through the detour.

Insects and bugs compete here for garden vegetables

By CHRIS DOLL
Gardening Area Adviser

Many gardeners are learning that insects have first claim at their crops.

Beans, potatoes, tomatoes, cucumbers, melons, eggplant, sweet corn, cabbage and other crops are showing signs of insect feeding. A watchful eye is needed to prevent serious damage.

As in any battles, it is best to know who or what you are fighting. Many growers claim to be fighting "bugs" when in reality they have insect problems.

It is only a technicality, but a true "bug" is an insect in the Hemiptera order and one that sucks juice from plant or animal. Not all juice suckers are "bugs," but all "bugs" are juice suckers.

It is more important to know the identity of the insect and the type of feeding or damage it causes.

The most troublesome insects of this season are bean leaf beetles, cucumber beetles, aphids and squash vine borers. Sometimes the name identifies the insect with the crop, but some insects have variable appetites and feed on several vegetables.

Bean leaf beetles have been most obvious in their activity. They are about 1/2" long, green, yellow, tan or red with two black spots on each wing cover. They drop to the ground when disturbed.

Round holes in bean leaves mean that insects have been chewing. Continued feeding results in a lacy foliage that cannot function efficiently, and low yields or plant death results.

Cucumber beetles may be spotted or striped. They are about 1/2" long, greenish yellow, but with 12 black spots or three black stripes down the back.

They feed on the leaves and stems of all vine crops, but also like corn, asparagus, and eggplant.

Damage is caused by leaf feeding and by spreading bacterial wilt in cucumbers, a disease that causes vine wilting in three or four weeks.

Cutworms are at work on sweet corn, beans, and transplants in many gardens. They cut the plants above or below the ground and cause extensive damage.

For infested areas, either dig them out of the soil, or spray the soil around the plant stem with carbaryl (Sevin) as per label recommendations.

Potato beetles are now emerging and they chew on potatoes and tomato leaves. They are tan and black striped beetles that may grow to be 1/2" long and 1/4" wide.

Their eggs are orange-yellow, and when these are numerous on the underside of the leaves it means more beetles will be forthcoming.

Heavy feeding will defoliate the plants.

Flea beetles are small gray, tan, or black insects about the size of a pin-head that jump when you come near. They rasp corn leaves or chew holes in leaves of many other crops, especially eggplant, tomatoes, and potatoes.

Their feeding damages the leaves and may inject bacterial diseases into the plant.

Squash vine borer attacks vine crops (summer squash are favorites) by tunneling or boring into the stem or crown and causes wilting or death of the plant. When wilting is seen, it is too late for control, so preventative measures must be used.

Sprays or dusts of malathion or carbaryl (Sevin) should control these insects.

For the squash vine borer, treatment must be made before egg laying so that young borers are killed before they enter the plant.

For the other pests, treatment can be delayed until some feeding is observed, but should be made before serious damage is visible.

Cabbage-family crops are eaten by the imported cabbage worm, cabbage looper, and diamond-back moth.

Threat charged

Michael R. Watkins, 21, of 2643 Edwards St., was arrested at home Monday and was charged with a misdemeanor count of theft after a stolen lawnmower allegedly was found partially hidden in his yard.

Nelson Newberry, 2512 Edwards St., told police his mower had been stolen and he thought he saw it partially hidden under a tarpaulin in Watkins' rear yard.

Police recovered the mower and alleged Watkins said he purchased it for $10 from a young boy who told him it was stolen. He was released after posting $35 bond.

Deadline for truck licenses

Secretary of State Alan J. Dixon today reaffirmed that 1978-79 fiscal year license plates must be displayed on second division vehicles by midnight June 30.

"Fiscal year plates may be purchased over the counter at the Centennial building and Dirksen Parkway facility in Springfield, at our three major facilities in Chicago — North, South and West — and at the inside facility at 137 N. Wells," Dixon said.

In addition, 229 banks and savings and loan associations throughout the state and approximately 300 currency exchanges in the Chicago area are selling "B" and "TA" fiscal plates.

Prowler threatens women

A woman residing in the 2900 block of Ash Avenue woke at 9:15 a.m. today to find a young man pushing her head down into her pillow with one hand and holding a pocket knife in the other.

The victim said the youth, who was in his late teens or early 20s, demanded sexual favors three times and she said she had none.

He then demanded jewelry and she said there was none in the house. She said the youth then threatened to injure her children and asked her if there was anything of value in the house. She said no.

Police were told the youth then demanded sexual favors and the woman refused, telling him instead about a jewelry box on a chest of drawers in the bedroom.

When the youth turned around to look at the jewelry box, the woman screamed as loudly as possible and the youth ran to the kitchen and outside into the back yard.

Indications were the youth first removed the screen to a family room window and opened the window, but found someone sleeping under the window and decided to seek another entry point.

He then opened a window to the victim's bedroom, took a diaper pail, shoe box and shoes from under the window and threw them in the yard, and then crawled in.

Police have questioned one youth in the case, but released him pending additional investigation.

GI study fund deadline near Over 208,000 Illinois veterans from the Vietnam era have used their GI Bill educational benefits, Donald Ramsey, director of the VA regional office in Chicago, says.

Another 208,000 veterans from this era have not used educational benefits, and for many the 10-year period of eligibility has expired," Ramsey said.

The VA is making a special effort this summer, urging these veterans who are still eligible to use their benefits if it is at all possible.

The VA will pay a veteran student $211 a month as an assistance benefit in helping him go to school. These benefits increase if the veteran has dependents.

Ramsey said the GI Bill program was not intended to pay full costs for a veteran's schooling, just as in the other two GI Bills.

However, an eligible veteran may borrow up to $2,500 per academic year to pursue a course leading to a standard college degree, or for a course leading to a professional or vocational objective which requires at least six months to complete.

Veterans who wish to finish high school, attend colleges or universities, or take business or vocational training under the GI Bill are being urged to check the date their eligibility expires.

Assistance and information is available from the VA regional office or from veterans service organizations.

Chaucer era—perceptive view

THE LIFE AND TIMES OF CHAUCER
By John Gardner
(Random House)

Reviewed by Gordon R. Wood
SIUE Department of English

This book is not just a biography of Chaucer. It is an account of a troubled, productive era in which a well-to-do commoner married a high born lady, served in dual and royal courts, was a government functionary, and wrote great poetry.

The poet Chaucer tells us how he came home exhausted from work at custom house records only to set down to begin his own writing. Gardner clarifies the situation.

Bureaucrat Chaucer had to do his own customs house reckonings and audit the work of his collectors. Customs collectors were "men of great power," "notoriously crooked," "with a penchant for hanging their enemies without trial."

The customs work is in one poem, and the crooks are scattered in others.

The brief quotations above suggest how scholar-novelist Gardner writes this biography and succeeds in making a whole person come to life before us.

That life, to select details from chapter headings, begins with Chaucer's ancestry. It continues into youth, with the specter of death, considers the young courtier and later scurrilous gossip, touches on Italian artistic humanism and Chaucer's adventures as a celebrated poet.

It continues with Chaucer's fortunes as a royalist in evil times. And it closes with the deaths of nobility—Gloucester, John of Gaunt—and "the hero of this book."

The biography is interesting in its own right. Its view of fourteenth century England is richer and more perceptive than anything else I have read.

GC street work projected

A survey of needed street improvements in Granite City which city engineers say would cost a total of $7 million includes proposed repairs and replacements of 190 sections of streets with a wide variety of cost, a review of the study showed this week.

The proposed improvement program was presented to the City Council by the City Engineering Department last week in response to a request by council members that a detailed report be made on the estimated cost of repairs and replacements of 190 sections of streets to a good condition.

At that time Monroe Brewer, city engineer, told the council that estimated cost of repairs recommended for a long list of city streets would amount to $6,783,422.

Later, Brewer and Dave Nolan, engineer technician, said that revisions in the study probably will bring the total estimated cost to at least $7 million.

City Council members referred the report to the Finance Committee to determine what, if any, of the suggested improvements might be included in the new 1978-79 city budget which is now being prepared.

Brewer told the officials that he and other engineers realize the program could not be undertaken in any one year, or in several years, but that with the study as a guideline, the city could work on an improvement program on a long-term basis, with a certain amount of repairs and replacements made each year under priority listings.

The request for a determination of street conditions was prompted by last winter's severe cold weather which resulted in extensive damage to street surfaces. Many Granite City streets that had been considered in fair condition became cracked and broken as a result of the freezing and thawing process.

Some officials noted that preparation of a study, showing in detail the condition of every street in the city, also would provide a planning basis for applying for state or federal street improvement funds in the event such legislation is passed.

2 youths face theft charge

John L. Stagg, 18, of 2420 Edwards St., and Kevin J. Claton, 18, of 2006 Sixth St., Madison, were charged with theft after allegedly stole a hubcap from a car in the parking lot of K-Mart on N. Main St. at 3:20 p.m. Monday.

A witness watched as two young men in a van removed a hub cap from the parked car of Gregory Bair, St. Louis, and then drove from the scene. The witness got a license number and description of the van.

Police then located the van at Stagg's home and questioned the two, who allegedly admitted taking the hubcap and then throwing it in a field at Garfield Avenue and Lindell Boulevard.

The two aided officers in searching for the hubcap, but it could not be found. Charges then were filed.

Scout camp

National Forest and occupies 370 acres of land.

Karandjeff was chairman of the Camp Search Committee in the early 1960s and first approached Joseph Sunnen in 1961 about the use of the Sunnen land and lake as a Boy Scout camp.

In addition to furnishing the land, Sunnen furnished a dining hall which accommodated 70 boys at a time. He also had a beach constructed, a roadway built and made available a five-room house for the camp director and his family.

On Thursday, March 28, 1963, at a council executive board meeting John X. Anderson, who then was camping chairman, reported that plans were well underway for the opening of camp in June.

The Cahokia Lodge, Order of the Arrow, launched a camp attendance drive for that first season and called it "Operation 500." The goal was to have 500 Scouts and leaders attend the first season.

"Mike" Strange of Madison, immediate past chief of the local Arrow lodge, was the camp promotion chairman and G. Rollin Henn was adviser to the committee.

Attending the first year were 442 scouts and 27 leaders during nine one-week periods. This was twice the number of Scouts that attended camp with Belleville Scouts during 1962.

Toby Kreider, a son-in-law of Sunnen, was presented the first camp emblem for his work in helping get the camp ready.

Members of the 1963 camp staff were Leroy Loggins of Greenville, the aquatic director; William Courtney of Madison, junior staff; Everett Hess of Edwardsville, naturalist; "Mike" Strange of Madison, assistant program director and rifle marksman instructor; Eugene McCoskey of Edwardsville, camp director and council field executive; Keith Christman of Granite City, program director; Walter Schramm of Edwardsville, dining hall attendant; and Richard Mumphard of Granite City, assistant aquatic director.

Camp Sunnen continued to grow in attendance and in 1955 there were 685 Scouts and leaders attending, in addition to 97 at a junior leader training period.

At an executive board meeting Thursday, Sept. 29, 1955, the board voted to go to the "Patrol Method" of operation. This meant that the scouts attending would camp by patrols and do their own cooking. This was a radical departure from past custom and at first caused a great deal of anxiety.

The 1954 Camp Development committee consisting of Tom Cochs of Edwardsville, Otto Klein of Collinsville and John X. Anderson, with the assistance of Bob Johnson, the scout executive, figured the cost of a storage building, chapel, latrines, and water, would be $91,547.

Karandjeff was named finance chairman for this project. He raised over $100,000. The new method worked and Camp Sunnen gained national recognition as a leader among Boy Scout Camps.

Karandjeff continued to be the principal fund raiser for camp and principal negotiator for the acquisition of Sunnen. He and G. Rollin Henn are the only two surviving members of the original camp search committee.

On March 15, 1973, in Washington County, Mo., at 9:30 a.m., the Sunnen Products Co. filed the deed giving full ownership of the land to the Cahokia Mound Council, Boy Scouts of America, with headquarters in Granite City.

Raymand, film at Red Cross dinner

Guests at the annual dinner of the Tri-City American Red Cross Chapter on Friday, July 7, will see an exclusive showing of a National Red Cross movie, featuring the chapter's involvement in saving the life of a local serviceman during a transatlantic flight.

The dinner and a dance will take place at the Sunset Hills Country Club.

Reservations are required in advance and may be made by calling the Tri-City Chapter office, at 452-7184, no later than June 30. Cost per person is $12.50.

Guest speaker for the evening will be Ollie Raymand, St. Louis television personality.

Mrs. Mille Meehan, chapter executive officer, said a social hour will be held from 6 to 7 o'clock with a cash bar.

Raymand will address the group at 7 p.m., and dinner will be served immediately afterward.

The film and a brief business meeting will be followed with dancing to the music of Joey James Orchestra.

Showing of the movie here is by special arrangement with the National Red Cross, which filmed the life-saving incident in Granite City, Germany and at a Pan American flight center, among other locales.

The film focuses upon Army Specialist Marvin T. Tucker of Granite City and his ordeal of Oct. 24, 1977, when he had a sudden cardiac arrest on a Pan Am overseas flight from New York to Germany.

No physicians nor medicines were on board the aircraft.

An Ohio woman, Susan Frankart, who had taken a Red Cross cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) course just three months earlier, used that knowledge to sustain the serviceman's life until the plane could make an emergency landing in Newfoundland.

Miss Frankart worked on Spec. Tucker for one hour and a half after he collapsed, during which time he had three separate heart arrests.

Spec. Tucker was enroute to his duty assignment in Germany after a 30-day leave here and his marriage to the former Cynthia Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Russell, 2637 E. 27th St.

For her quick thinking and heroic effort in saving Spec. Tucker's life, Miss Frankart, a civilian employee of the U.S. government, was awarded the National Red Cross Certificate of Merit.

A film crew from the American Red Cross Audio-Visual Production Center in Washington, D.C., came to Granite City in April to film an interview with Mrs. Meehan and Jack Mulach, chairman of the Tri-City Red Cross Chapter.

Miss Frankart also appears in the movie, which includes a reenactment of the scene on board the plane, Mrs. Meehan said.

Some crime cases decline

A total of 215 crimes in eight categories occurred in Granite City during May, a decline of 31 below 246 cases reported in the same month a year ago, according to a report by Chief of Police Ronald Veizer.

The report shows the number of cases involving auto burglary, larceny, auto burglary and homicide was less last month than during May 1977, while cases involving robbery, assault and burglary increased slightly in May this year.

Police cleared 140 cases by arrests last month, or eight fewer cases than the 148 cleared in May 1977, the report shows.

There were no homicide cases last month, down from one in May 1977, and no rape cases last month, the same as in May a year ago. Three robberies occurred last month, up from one, while 26 assault cases were up from 21 a year ago. Fifty-five burglary cases occurred last month, up from 49.

The report listed 26 auto burglary cases last month, down from 42, and 88 larceny cases, down from 100. There were 17 auto thefts in May this year, down from 32 in the same month a year ago.

Forty-one accidents involving injuries occurred last month, the report states, with a total of 55 persons injured. This compares with 44 such accidents in May a year ago, with 78 persons injured.

There was a total of 148 property damage accidents last month, up from 126, making a total of 189 accidents of all types, up from 170 a year ago.

Police made a total of 376 traffic arrests last month, compared with 368 in May 1977. They made 132 other arrests, down from 140, for total May arrests of 508, increased from 498 in May last year.

Police filed 41 additional charges in those cases, making a total of 549 charges of all kinds.

Loses heart-breaker to Alton

Tri-City blanks Highland, 1-0

By PETE HAYES
Press-Record Sports Editor
GRANITE CITY — Babe Champion breathed a sigh of relief.
His Tri-City Post 113
American Legion baseball team had just ripped Highland Post 439 here last night, 1-0. "Now our pitching's getting better and we're finally getting some runners to go along with it."
"We've had two well-pitched games in a row," said Champion. "It's just a shame that last night (Tuesday) we couldn't give our pitcher much support."
Tuesday night, Tri-City received a one-hit gem from Doug Rains, but left 12 men on base and fell to Alton 4-3.

TRICITY 1, HIGHLAND 0 Champion almost had those men left-on-base come back to haunt him again last night. Tri-City left the bases loaded in the first inning without scoring a run, and appeared to be going to do the same again in the fourth.
But rightfielder John Krekovich came home in the fourth inning on Randy Smith's bases-loaded single to finally break the scoring ice for Tri-City.

CHAMPION was high on pitcher Jeff Tretter's performance. "He really used his noggin out there," he said. "He's not the strikeout type of pitcher, so he had to be thinking out there on the hill."
Highland appeared to find the formula to getting to Tretter early in the game. In the first inning, rightfielder Gerry Noether slammed a two-out single between first and second.
But from there on, he limited

DISTRICT PLAYOFFS
Aug. 3-6
5th DIVISION PLAYOFFS at Carle
STATE TOURNAMENT at Highland

* League Games

Highland to only two hits, walked one and struck out one.

"Our pitchers are really coming along well," said Champion. "There are only two guys on the staff who've got any Legion pitching experience to speak of (Rains and Tretter)," he said. "And they didn't see an awful lot of action last year."

HIGHLAND's biggest scoring threat came in the third inning.
Third baseman Randy Moss led off with a walk, went to second on catcher Steve Ibor's single and went to third on a sacrifice play by centerfielder Dean Frecker. He was there with one out.

But shortstop Steve Ribbing, the next batter, slammed one back to Tretter who caught it and threw to second to catch Ibor napping off second.

"That's what I mean by using his noggin," said Champion.
"He knew that the man on second would be leading off and probably wouldn't be able to get back in time."

"Those are the kinds of plays we're going to have to get this season if we want to win many ball games. Our pitchers aren't the strikeout kind... we have to make some plays behind them to win."

AFTER that third inning,
Tretter retired 10 batters in a row before allowing a one-out single by Highland first baseman Dave Romersinker in the seventh inning.
"Jeff really had them off-stride tonight," said Champion.
"I'm pleased with the way he's coming along."

ALTON 4, TRI-CITY 3

Tri-City pitcher Doug Rains turned in an outstanding performance at Alton Tuesday night, allowing Alton just one hit. But he also walked six batters. Four of them scored.
Alton scored twice in the second inning and twice in the third, then managed to hold off a charging Tri-City team in the sixth and seventh innings for the victory.

TRI-CITY scored one run in the third inning and two in the sixth, but Champion felt they could've gotten more.

"I really thought we were going to catch them in the sixth," he said. "But we just couldn't get the hits we needed when we needed them."
Tri-City out-hit Alton 8-1.

SLIDING IN to home last night at South field is Tri-City Post 113 designated hitter Larry Heagy. He was thrown out at the plate, but the team went on to score a run in the fourth inning and defeat Highland, 1-0.

Texan Poovey struggles, but sweeps Tri-City cycle races

Some 56 professional motorcycle riders from all over the country put on a dazzling show at Tri-City Speedway,
Tuesday evening.
Because of the large turnout riders, a split program was held — one for the Novice riders and one for the Junior-Experts.

JUNIOR-EXPERT PROGRAM
Terry Poovey, National Number 18, from Garland, Texas made a sweep of the motorcycle races at Tri-City Speedway, Granite City, Illinois by winning his heat, semi and Poovey captured the feature event only after a continuous struggle to stay with the fast pack. Rob Beary, Belleville, then Greg Thompson of Belleville led for the next five one lap. Thompson regained the lead only to fall off in corner

two. Thompson was not injured, but the race had to be stopped because his foot was caught underneath his machine.

On the restart, Poovey took the lead, challenged by Tim Cartwright, Tulsa, Oklahoma and Beary for the final three laps. A jubilant Texan came by to pick up the checkers.

'The cookies and milk gang'

A group of Granite City youngsters and their mothers gathered at Tri-Mor Bowl Tuesday for cookies and milk ... and for some bowling. The Cookies and Milk League started here last week for 16 mothers and 20 children. The mothers bowl a frame, then their kids bowl one ... with an eight-pound ball.

Above: Raymond Hoffman, 3, and Pamela Coffman, 4, enjoy their cookies and milk after a hard day on the lanes.

Left: Little Christopher Krause, 3½, apprehensively watches his ball slowly roll down the lane as his mother, Barbara Krause looks on.

Below: Sean Hay, 5, gets a better view as his ball heads toward the pins. The league, which bowls every Tuesday at 12:30 p.m., is open to mothers and children ages 2 to 6.

What ever happened to ... Two members of Madison High's 28-2 cage team of 1925 recall the 'good old days'

By PETE HAYES
Press-Record Sports Editor
GRANITE CITY — There are no more peach baskets. No jump balls after a field goal is made. The game is much faster now. What used to be a final score is now the score after one quarter.
Basketball has changed a lot since 1925. Nobody knows how much it has as well as two former members of that 1925 Madison team, Paul Harshany and Elmer Noonan.

The two were brought together for the first time in many years here last week when the Madison classes of 1924, '25 and '26 held a joint reunion.

TEAM OUTSTANDING
The Madison basketball team in 1924-25 was a remarkably well-oiled machine for that day, the pioneer years of the sport. The team (which was not yet known as the Trojans) finished the regular season with a 27-1 record, losing only to Cleveland High School of St. Louis. The final score was 25-15 ... in overtime.

"There wasn't as much scoring in those days," said Harshany, a guard for the Madison squad. "Us guards weren't allowed to cross the mid-court line at any time during the game ... we had to stay in our opponents' end of the court to 'guard' the basket."

Another factor in keeping the final scores low was the fact that after every field goal, the ball was brought to center court and a jump-ball occurred. "I like that way better than the way they do it now," said Harshany. "Now days, the game moves to fast, you can't keep up with the action half the time."

"Heck, in the old days, if you had a tall guy on your team, you'd get the ball just about every time after a basket was scored and you could score again."

"We had specially-designed plays for a jumpball," said Harshany. "The game was more fascinating to me then."

The 1925 team was made up of nine players, several of whom went on to claim fame in areas other than the basketball court.

"Only two members of the entire class of 1925 (there were 28 of them) went on to college," said Noonan. "George Steinger was one of them and he was on the basketball team."

Steinger went on to become a well-known Granite City dentist. He died recently.

Another member of the team well-known to Quad Cityans was Steve Maeras. He was long-time mayor of Madison from the early 1940's until his death about 10 years ago.

Maeras was described in the 1925 Madison yearbook this way: "The great playing of Steve at center has helped bring home many a game. Steve is known to be the best center MHS has had in its history. A dead shot from the center of the court and follow-up shots. This is Steve's fourth and last year on the team. Good luck to you elsewhere."

Noonan served as the captain of the squad. He and Steinger worked as the forwards of the team, and almost caused an early season loss in '25 ... by their absence.

"We were to play Pocahontas High School on a Saturday afternoon," said Noonan. "George and I got the OK from Coach Rohe to be absent from the game because we wanted to go up to the University of Illinois and see Red Grange play football against Michigan."

They went to Champaign and saw Grange score five touchdowns against the Wolverines. Meantime, back in Pocahontas, their Madison teammates weren't having such an easy time of things. They barely escaped with a 12-11 victory.

Noonan for a number of years was the Supervisor of Venice Township until he moved to Portland, Oregon some 25 years ago. He and his wife for 53 years are the parents of one daughter, Alice.

Harshany started as a shipping clerk at Bartee Asphalt after graduating from high school. He held that job until the crash of 1929. It was two years before he could land another job ... he started his own coal business in 1931.

In 1940, the evolution of the use of natural gas put his coal operation out of business, so Harshany went into the heating and air conditioning business. He stayed in it until 1971 when he sold out to his son, Robert, who keeps the business at the same location as his father had operated it those many years.

Harshany's brother, Sam, was also a member of the Madison team in 1925. But perhaps he is best known for his accomplishments on the baseball diamond. He went on to a career in the minor leagues and at one time caught for the old St. Louis Browns of the American League.

CHANGES OFF THE COURT, TOO
Noonan and Harshany have seen more changes in the sport of basketball than ones on the court. "We just weren't in-

Emphasize relating art to all phases of education

Now that the Illinois Office of Education has just approved a new five-year plan for the arts in general education, a two-week pilot workshop for interrelating the arts in education will be offered at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville this summer.

Developed by a task force, the newly-approved Arts in General Education Program may be used as a model for planning that is under way in several other states.

Chairman of the task force is Patricia Goehle, assistant professor of speech communication at SIUE.

"Illinois arts educators agree that all children, regardless of talent or handicaps, ethnic background or demographic location, and affluent or needy circumstances, require help in developing skills of creative problem-solving and artistic perception and expression," Mrs. Goehle said.

"The Arts in General Education Program can help our students realize their potential which, at present, is too often ignored, undeveloped or wasted," she said.

The six components of the newly approved plan include: instruction in generalized arts, traditional arts, integrated arts, interrelated arts, specialized arts, and the extended arts.

All six of the components should be included in a school's curriculum, Mrs. Goehle believes.

However, actual implementation of the plan would depend on each school district's needs and resources, personnel and children.

To be considered a district or a school with a comprehensive arts education program, there should be opportunity for all students to experience all the arts in a continuing and systematic way in both expressive-creative and impression-perceptual modes of instruction, Mrs. Goehle said.

According to William Vilhauer, chairman of the department of theater and dance at SIUE, the summer workshop at the university is geared to assist in-service elementary and secondary teachers as well as education majors in interrelating the arts into general education.

Specialties of the workshop will include communications, creative drama, music art, and movement.

Beginning Monday, June 19, the first week of the workshop will be devoted to individual sessions of each specialty discipline and will meet from 9 a.m. until noon.

The following week, selected leaders from the five specialty areas, with the assistance of guest consultants and demonstration groups, will lead group sessions in an exploration of integrating the disciplines. Sessions will meet from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Students interested in enrolling in the workshop may enroll for four quarter-hours of college credit.

Students interested mainly in art may enroll in Research in Art Education (ART 400-4). First-week classes will convene in Room 3200 of Classroom Building III.

Music students may enroll in General Music in the Classroom (MUS 453-3) and Music Readings in Music Education (MUS 483-1). First-week classes will meet in Room 2413 of Peck Classroom Building.

Students interested in learning more about speech communications may sign up for Communication Practicum (SPC 309-4) or Special Problems in Speech Communication (SPC 309-4). Classes will meet in Room 3312 of Peck Classroom Building during the first week.

Students wishing to learn how to integrate theater and dance into their classes may enroll in Creative Dramatics (THEA 410a-4) or Movement in Aesthetic Education (THEA 400a-4). First-week classes for Creative Dramatics (THEA 410a-4) will meet in Room 2039 of the Communications Building. Classes for Movement in Aesthetic Education (THEA 400a-4) will meet in Room 2019 of the Communications Building.

All second-week classes will meet in Room 2405 of Peck Classroom Building. Students interested in the workshop for graduate credit are to contact the department office in the area of specialty desired, Vilhauer said.

Additional information on the workshop may be obtained by contacting the department of theater and dance at 692-2773 or the department of speech communication at 692-3090.

6 1/2 % rise in income benefits

The Illinois Department of Public Aid on Tuesday announced increases in federal Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits for clients who receive State Supplemental Payments (SSP).

Approximately 60,000 persons are likely to be affected.

Recipients of federal Social Security Benefits (SSA) and SSI recipients who have no other income will see an increase in their July checks.

Under federal law, benefits for all SSA recipients will be increased 6.5 percent, with dollar amounts varying for each case.

The new figures for SSI recipients who have no other income break down this way:

Recipient, current total, increase and new total—

Individual (living alone), $177.80, $11.60 and $189.40.

Couple, $266.70, $17.40 and $284.10.

Individual (living in another household), $118.54, $7.73 and $126.27.

Couple (living in another household), $177.80, $11.60 and $189.40.

Individuals living in group care facilities will receive the same $25 monthly amount they have been getting.

Although persons under both SSA and SSI will not receive a 6.5 percent increase in each benefit, the total of both will be increased.

SSI recipients who have other income will receive an approximate 6.5 percent increase.

The increase could affect the amount of aid for those SSA recipients who also receive Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) or General Assistance (GA).

Additional SSA payments could meet the financial needs of some recipients, resulting in adjustments to AFDC or GA benefits.

SSA is the original Social Security insurance program, administered by the Social Security Administration of the federal government.

Employees pay into this fund while working and receive benefits after retirement. In some cases, dependents of retirees and those who are disabled also receive SSA.

SSI (Supplemental Security Income) helps the aged, blind or disabled. This program is administered by the federal government, too. Some persons are eligible for both SSA and SSI.

SSP (State Supplemental Payments) is a state-run program to help aged, blind or disabled individuals who need additional financial assistance.

In most instances, assistance provided through this program supplements SSI or SSA.

AFDC (Aid to Families with Dependent Children) is a state-administered program which assists certain families with the financial care of their dependent children. Some SSA recipients are eligible for AFDC—recipients of SSI are not.

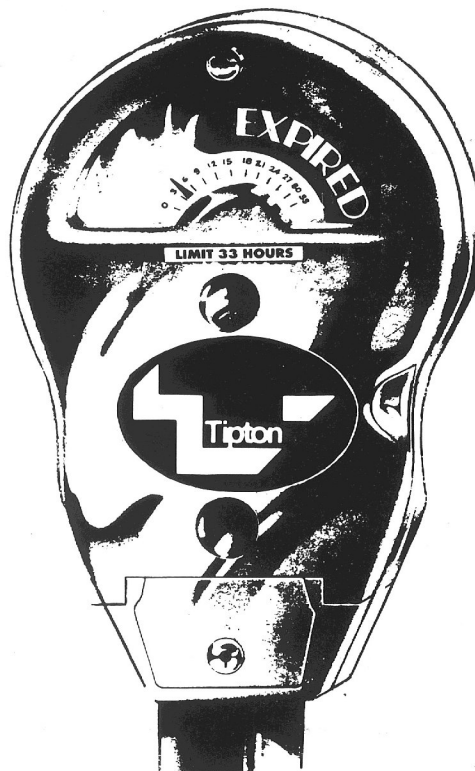

GA (General Assistance) is a program to help those who are not eligible for AFDC but still need assistance. SSI and SSP recipients are not eligible for GA.

Theft from car

George Geddie, 649 Niedringhaus Ave., Apt. 202, discovered at 10 a.m. Tuesday that his in-dash stereo, two speakers and auto battery had been stolen from his car, parked at his apartment, which is located above Holt's Bar.

Customers in the bar recalled that a boy about 15 or 16 years old was in the bar Saturday night, attempting to sell stolen batteries, stereos and tape players.

Board for 'targeting' of Title I

The State Board of Education voted unanimously during the weekend to support a change in allocation of state funds to disadvantaged students. Meeting in Chicago, the board decided to support HB 2619, with suggested amendments.

The state provides special funds to school districts on the basis of a count of children from poor families. Districts receive the funds through a Title I weighting factor in the state aid formula.

HB 2619, sponsored by State Rep. Emil Jones (D-Chicago), stipulates that 50 percent of these funds be targeted directly to students who generate the funds, namely, children from poor families.

The bill also states that the targeting, to apply only to the City of Chicago, be phased in over a three-year period.

Although the State Education Board voted to support the Jones bill, it did so with three reservations:

(1) That an amendment be inserted to insure that no school district be required to distribute the funds in any way that would jeopardize its eligibility to receive federal Title I monies.

(2) That the formula for distribution be amended to insure that schools eligible for federal Title I services — and presently unserved because of lack of full funding — be funded from state monies at the level of schools currently served, before the monies are distributed elsewhere in the district.

(3) That language be inserted to require statewide compliance with the provisions.

The Jones bill has passed the House and is under consideration in the Senate Rules Committee.

The board also approved a five-year state plan for the arts in general education.

The plan is the result of efforts by a statewide task force appointed by Superintendent Joseph Cronin in January 1976. It deals with seven different aspects of arts in education, including advisory structure, statewide awareness, curricula and model site development, collection of data on resources and funding, standards for art in education, in-service for teachers and administrators, and teacher training programs.

The superintendent has already appointed five regional arts advisory committees to advise the Illinois Office of Education on implementation of the plan.

According to Vaughn Jaehnikke, dean of fine arts at Eastern Illinois University and chairman of the arts task force, the quality and detail of the plan are "exemplary."

"The regional approach could serve as a model for the rest of the states," Jaehnikke said.

The arts program is not mandated and will result in no additional cost to local districts, Dr. Cronin said. In cases where implementation calls for some cost to the Illinois Office of Education, outside funding will be solicited.

In other business, the board voted to extend additional time to three school districts to submit comprehensive desegregation plans.

The probation status of Argossum District 104 was continued through Aug. 31. Action on Maywood 89 was deferred for 30 days to give the district an opportunity to submit a plan before the board votes to institute non-recognition status.

In Centralia 135, the district's waiver of full conformance was extended for a year because of financial and space constraints.

The board also directed the state superintendent to seek an amendment to the agency's 1978-79 appropriation to provide for an independent, third-party evaluation of both the Transitional Bilingual Education program and the Truants Alternative program.

The board stipulated that the cost for bilingual evaluation should not exceed $100,000, and the cost of the truants alternative evaluation not exceed $33,000.

To question boy about break-in Granite City juvenile authorities were to question a 13-year-old boy who allegedly broke into the home of George Hlava, 2145 Monroe St. Police were told that a boy had been seen crawling in a window of the home and when they arrived, they found a boy on the back porch. The boy said he was only attempting to retrieve items belonging to him which a friend had in the house.

The boy was released pending discussion with juvenile authorities. Nothing was believed removed from the home.

Percy joins the effort to protect against surprise news searches

Senator Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.) has joined Senators Birch Bayh (D-Ind.) and Howard Metzenbaum (D-Ohio) in introducing "The Citizen's Privacy Protection Amendment of 1978" (S. 3164) to restrict the effect of the May 31 Supreme Court decision regarding the search of news offices.

In the 5 to 3 decision (Zurcher v. Stanford Daily), the court held that police, armed with a warrant, have the right to make an unannounced search of a news office for evidence of a crime, even though no one in the office is suspected of complicity in the crime.

"The idea of policemen rummaging around a newsroom — opening drawers, rifling files, searching through wastebaskets — is totally contrary to our fundamental belief in a free press and what the First Amendment was meant to protect against," Sen. Percy said.

A reporter's stock-in-trade is the ability to gather information, often from confidential sources. If we permit these police searches, such sources will soon dry up and, with them, the public's access to information independent of government."

Under the proposed legislation, federal, state and local law enforcement officials would still be permitted to obtain evidence by subpoena from people not suspected of any crime.

Unlike a search warrant, a subpoena would provide prior notice to the person affected, eliminate the need for a search by permitting the person to produce the information requested, and allow the opportunity for a prior court challenge before compliance. "Reporters are not the only persons threatened," Percy said. "As Justice John Paul Stevens pointed out in his dissent, any person — a doctor, lawyer, clergyman, merchant or customer — might unknowingly possess evidence of someone else's crime."

"This type of search is potentially subject to tremendous abuse, and must be curbed."

The bill would continue to permit police to obtain a search warrant if there is probable cause to believe that evidence might be destroyed, hidden or removed.

Violations of the measure would result in civil damages, including up to $10,000 in punitive damages.

School hearing funds described as inadequate

Illinois Education Association President Mel Smith charged Friday that the professional destinies of numerous Illinois career teachers are in jeopardy because State Superintendent of Education Joseph Cronin has failed to request adequate funding to permit hearings by impartial officers in tenured teacher dismissal cases.

"Since the superintendent didn't favor the bill in the beginning, we can only suppose he is trying to thwart it now that it is law," Smith declared.

Five phone calls, including three to Chicago, seeking information on what could be done for teachers who have hearings pending failed to uncover any useful information, according to the IEA leader.

Venice-Lincoln ends 10th year

Venice-Lincoln Technical Center celebrated the tenth year of operation and awarded diplomas and certificates to 79 students in graduation ceremonies held last week.

In addition to the current graduates, 38 nurse aides who graduated at three earlier commencements during the 1977-78 school year, and 14 children completing preschool classes were honored.

The adult vocational-educational school, financed with federal and state funds, is administered by the Venice School District.

Over the past 10 years, the school has received numerous accolades from educational authorities for its programs and is considered to be among the most successful schools of its type in Illinois.

The graduation ceremonies were held in the Venice Recreation Center on Broadway.

Decorations were in green and yellow, and special emphasis was placed in the decor commemorating the 10th anniversary year.

The keynote speaker was Dr. Wayne Giles, manager, Adult and Continuing Education Section, Illinois Office of Education.

The processionals were played by Miss Denise Rankin and the pledge of allegiance was led by preschoolers.

Directed by Mrs. Ruth Rankin and Mrs. Janet Nolan.

The youngsters take part in the processionals at the center while their parents are attending class.

The Rev. Arvin Twietmeyer, pastor of Concordia Lutheran Church, Granite City, gave the invocation.

Venice-Lincoln Center Director K. Duane Rankin welcomed the students and guests.

Congratulations were extended to the graduates by Robert N. Vickers, superintendent of Venice Public Schools.

George Wilkins III, pool manager, said the pool is available for rent to groups from 8:15 p.m. to 10:15 p.m.

"It doesn't matter how many people are in the group, the $50 rental fee is the same," he said.

Andy Gibb to perform this evening

Andy Gibb, one of the hottest young rock performers in the nation, will be in concert this evening at 8 o'clock at the Mississippi River Festival on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Tickets are available at the MRP box office at $7.50 for reserved seats and $5 for lawn seats.

His mother was a singer; his father was a drummer and his three older brothers are the Bee Gees, regarded by some as the top group in music today.

Andrew Roy Gibb was born March 5, 1958, in Manchester, England, the youngest of the Gibb brothers. His family moved to Australia when Andy was six months old.

In 1967, in response to the rising popularity of the older Gibb sons, Barry, Robin and Maurice, the Gibb family moved from Australia to England.

After three years in England, the Gibb family took up residence on the tiny island of Ibiza, off the coast of Spain. A year later, at the age of 15, Andy made his performing debut at a local tourist bar.

Nineteen-seventy-three and a family move to the British Isle of Man provided him with his first real job in the music business. He formed a rock band and kept gainfully employed by playing at the island's two major clubs.

Then, following the course set earlier by his brothers, Andy Gibb moved back to Australia, planning to spend several years learning his way around a stage in front of one of the world's most critical audiences.

But events did not proceed as planned, and in little more than one year, he was in great demand. His first single, "Words and Music," made the top five in Australia's capital city.

Robert Stigwood, who has managed the older Gibb brothers for many years, arranged for him to fly to Miami to record a few demonstration tapes. Barry Gibb went to help out and the two brothers set about writing some new songs.

Shortly after Andy returned home, he received the good news. The tapes were well liked and he went back to Miami to record his first album.

"Flowing Rivers" has sold close to a million copies, and includes two certified gold singles, "I Just Want to Be Your Everything" and "(Love Is) Thicker Than Water."

In the summer of 1977, noon after his first LP release, Gibb went on his first North American concert tour. On June 28 at the MFR, Chuck Mangione and his quartet will be featured.

Public transit subsidy higher

A $453.7 million public transportation program for the 1978-79 fiscal year to continue and improve public transportation services for 13 Downstate areas and the six-county Northeastern Illinois area has been announced by Secretary of Transportation John D. Kramer.

Of the total program, $193.4 million is in state funds and will attract $238.2 million in anticipated federal funds. The remaining $22.1 million is local contributions.

In announcing the program, Kramer noted that, with the 1979 fiscal year program, "the state continues to increase its support of mass transit statewide."

"We have increased our subsidy of public transportation in operating assistance and in our capital assistance programs to the benefit of Illinois residents."

Two direct operating assistance programs comprise the major portion of the state's financial aid to public transportation. They total $13.6 million, or nearly 75 percent of total state funding.

"Downstate operators will receive $7.8 million — an 18.2 percent rise in operating assistance over last year's levels."

The Regional Transportation Authority will receive $133.7 million — an 8.2 percent increase.

In addition, the state will continue its $22.5 million program of fare reimbursements for student and elderly riders.

The $22.1 million fiscal 1979 capital program has three categories: $2.2 million for special transportation for increased service to the elderly and the handicapped; $8.6 million for Downstate transit service to the elderly and the handicapped; $8.6 million for Downstate transit improvements; and $20.3 million in grants for the six-county RTA region.

The ten Downstate transit systems will receive $8.6 million.

Chapter rated 3rd nationally

The Epsilon Beta Chapter of Pi Omega Pi, national honor society for business education, at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has been ranked third among more than 100 participating university chapters.

George K. Walters, national president, said judging was done by last year's winner, Zeta Chapter award competition will be on display at the national convention at San Antonio in December.

SIUE Chapter President Phyllis Chivovich of Mt. Olive said the organization held various fund-raising events during the past year, with the proceeds going toward funding the annual $50 Pi Omega Pi Award given at SIUE Honors Day ceremonies in May.

This year's recipient was Anne McLaughlin, Hillsboro, who had a high grade-point average for junior standing in business and education classes. Other projects sponsored by the campus chapter during the year included a clothing drive for needy persons, a sale of stationery items, and a sale of handcrafted Christmas wreaths during the holidays.

To be eligible for membership in Pi Omega Pi, SIUE business education students must have a four-point grade average on a five-point scale in their business and education coursework.

Food stamp allotments to increase Effective July 1, food stamp allotments and income eligibility levels will be increased for all households participating in the food stamp program.

Reflecting March 1978 food costs, this increase will take effect with issuances for the month of July 1978.

Based on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's food plan, the amount of increase will be dependent on the size and income of the households involved.

The family size, maximum income and allotment amount are:

One, $277 and $54.
Two, $363 and $100.
Three, $480 and $144.
Four, $607 and $182.
Five, $726 and $216.
Six, $867 and $260.
Seven, $953 and $286.
Eight, $1093 and $328.

Households with more than eight members will receive a $2 allotment adjustment and a $140 income adjustment for each additional person.

Persons apply at their local Public Aid office, where eligibility is determined based on income, assets and size of family.

If eligible for participation, households will receive a Food Stamp Authorization to Purchase Card(s) which entitles them to purchase the coupons at any local food stamp sales outlet.

Additional information about the food stamp program is available at all Public Aid offices.

Diplomas to cadets

Two Granite City cadets were among graduates and underclassmen receiving honors during the 86th commencement at Missouri Military Academy, Mexico, Mo.

Col. Charles Strubling III, academy president, and Dr. James C. Olson, University of Missouri president, presented diplomas to culminate three days of graduation activities at MMA.

Dr. Olson also delivered the commencement address to the cadet corps and over 1,500 visitors at the academy, a college preparatory school for boys in the 4th through 12th grades.

Both Cadet Frank Draganich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Draganich, 2713 Grand Ave., and Cadet Darryl Toussaint, son of Dr. and Mrs. Harold E. Toussaint, 117 Riviera Drive, received high school diplomas and non-commissioned officer warrants.

Regional job gains forecast

Globe-Democrat — The St. Louis region can meet a goal of providing between 307,000 and 422,500 new jobs by the year 2000, despite an apparently contradictory federal and state projection, but it will take total community efforts, a Regional Commerce and Growth Association official believes.

"I am more optimistic today than I was a few years ago. I think our problems are very solvable."

"We can create the jobs we need," said Arthur B. Baehler, general manager and director of economic development.

The area may reach an anticipated increase of 39,350 jobs by 1980, five years ahead of the projection made by the U.S. Department of Labor and the Missouri Division of Employment Security.

"The St. Louis area doesn't grow by more than that by 1985, then we're in real trouble," Baehler said.

The projection, which is included in an employment outlook study of St. Louis and eight surrounding counties in Missouri and Illinois, is based on an anticipated average increase of 3,900 jobs annually from the years 1974 to 1985.

Total area employment under the projection would be 1,000,500, or a growth rate of 4.09 percent for the 11-year period, according to the study.

Most new jobs in the region are expected to develop in the construction industry, which employed about 37,000 workers in 1974.

The study projects a construction working force of 48,230 by 1985, or a growth of more than 30 percent.

Other areas expected to show employment increases include agriculture, a gain of about 6 percent; the fabricated metal products industry, an increase of 13.5 percent; and state government employment, an increase of about 15 percent.

Employment is expected to drop by about 2,000 jobs in the area's railroad and railway express industry, but growth is forecast in trucking and warehousing.

About 27,000 more jobs are expected to be available in trade, services, insurance, real estate and finance, the study says.

Jobs in such fields as advertising are expected to increase about 37 percent.

Service jobs replace manufacturing positions

Post-Dispatch — St. Louis is on the upswing, with an indication that unemployment will decline and construction will significantly increase between 1980 and 1985, says Professor Glen E. Holt, chairman of urban studies at Washington University.

"While St. Louis is losing manufacturing jobs, it is gaining in service jobs and office employment," Holt said in an address to the Missouri Historical Society.

"While the gains are not yet great enough to offset the losses in the city and will not offset them before 1980, the city stands a better-than-even chance of increasing employment between 1980 and 1985."

Other factors that contribute to future growth include improved labor-management relations, increased tourism and convention bookings and the attitudes within a community, he said.

The region, Baehler said, is taking the opportunity to overcome a negative national image.

Almost $1 billion worth of new construction — mainly office buildings and hotels — will take place, he predicted.

"The surprising fact is that roughly 90 percent of it will come into St. Louis from outside the area," he said.

"It is extraordinarily important that St. Louis has become a place that is recognized as a good risk by investment managers around the nation."

Of the Cervantes Convention Center, Holt said that "for a $25 million investment and because of some very tough merchandising by St. Louis," the city is attracting more and bigger conventions.

Convention income, which increased to $20 million in 1976 from $31 million in 1973, is expected to reach $20 million by 1980.

"Because of the aggressive efforts of St. Louisans to obtain convention business and to sell the city and the region as a good location for offices and manufacturing plants," he said, "and because of the new investment that has been made in recent years, Advertising Age, the journal of the advertising industry, in 1977 marked St. Louis as one of the 10 top growth markets out of more than 100 surveyed."

"That recognition indicates that experts in the advertising industry believe that, while the area's population might not be rising very fast, there are going to be more jobs and there are going to be more consumer dollars available for the purchase of goods and services."

"Here, then, is national cognizance from what is probably America's most cynical group of professionals that St. Louis' prospects are bright."

Search ruling seen as jeopardizing all citizens

The Supreme Court ruling, 5-3, May 31 in the Stanford (Calif.) Daily case that law enforcement officers can make unannounced searches of newspaper offices even though no employee is involved in a crime met immediate editorial page resistance across the country.

A check of editorial pages yielded cartoons and editorials denouncing the decision as "chilling," "fearsome," "horrid" — and more.

Generally, the editorials in explaining ramifications of the ruling warned readers that, in the words of one editorial, "if the press can be muffled, the ordinary citizen can be muffled, too."

Excerpts from editorials follow: Providence (R.I.) Journal-Bulletin:

"The United States Supreme Court's decision permitting police to conduct unannounced searches of newspaper offices for criminal evidence strikes a powerful blow at press freedom in America."

"When government encroaches on the gathering of news and the free exchange of information, as it has done in this instance, it is democratic society that is the ultimate loser, and that means all of us."

New York Daily News: "On the filmmaker pretext they could go rummaging through a newspaper office, disrupting the operation, seizing documents and intimidating the employees — in brief, running roughshod over the First Amendment."

"When the press is subjected to police search and intimidation, the public interest suffers, for the press serves as the public's channel of information about politics, government, and other public affairs."

"Moreover, if the press can be muffled, the ordinary citizen can be muffled, too."

Minneapolis Star: "The Supreme Court's threat of irreparable injury to the freedom of the press."

"Indeed, although the case before the court arose in 1971, it is no longer an isolated incident, there being 10 similar ones recently."

"In 1972 the Supreme Court held that journalists are entitled to have courts balance First Amendment interests against claimed law enforcement needs before confidential information must be produced."

"And 26 states, including Minnesota, recognize this principle in their reporters' shield laws. These laws are jeopardized by the majority's anti-press doctrine."

Clearwater (Fla.) Sun: "This week's court decision may give rise to a new breed of craftsman. He'll be the man who can design or build hidden wall panels or secret trapdoors where, even the most inquisitive, can be hidden."

"Another branch of knowledge that may flourish is cryptography."

"A reporter talking to a Mafia informer will be well advised to couch his notes in as mysterious a script he can conjure up."

"As he sits writing his expose, he may find himself looking up into the stern eyes of a deputy sheriff who has just marched through the door, waving a search warrant issued by a friendly neighborhood judge."

Harford (Conn.) Courier: "Bank robbers are not camped out in newsrooms, free to store the fruits of their labor, while police wait helplessly outside."

"The evidence police yearn for within the newsroom walls is information — information gathered for the purpose of informing the public, information that will dry up if its sources are easily exposed to police scrutiny at will."

Chicago Tribune: "The question involved in the Stanford case is one which should be subject to solution on the basis of reason, not categorical degrees."

"Mr. White and the court majority have given us a broad decree which is bound to have a deterrent effect on any editor or reporter who sees a local wrong which needs righting."

"It will, in short, protect the watergates of the future."

Detroit News: "The Supreme Court's ruling puts a fearsome weapon in the hands of malicious judges and policemen bent on harassing a newspaper that has been critical of them or their friends."

"On the filmmaker pretext they could go rummaging through a newspaper office, disrupting the operation, seizing documents and intimidating the employees — in brief, running roughshod over the First Amendment."

Mrs. Mathias said the keynote speaker was Dr. Lewis Haselmayer, president of Iowa Wesleyan College, and the next convention is scheduled to be conducted in Peoria.

A dessert luncheon was served by the hostess. The chapter will reconvene in October, according to Mrs. Mathias.

Arline and Jim Fox were congratulated on their anniversary, and a song was sung to Frances Williams who observed her birthday.

John and Dona Boyer were in charge of the refreshments and Mrs. Watkins decorated the tables in the dining room in a horse motif. Goo hoister napkin holders were used as favors with tiny plastic horses and special match book were presented to the men.

Directory shows the wide range of community services in this area — and can help make them effective and efficient

As is verified by a newly-prepared Directory of Community Services, there is a diverse array of voluntary and governmental programs providing needed human services in the Quad-City area.

The directory seeks to deal with one of the chief challenges facing any community — effectively pairing up specific services with those who can put them to best use.

Prepared by the Tri-Cities Area United Way with the active cooperation of Madison County's Office of Manpower Development, the massive directory will help counselors and service coordinators become aware of all the programs so they can pass along information about them to individuals and families.

Listings include Aid through Information on Drugs, AID-CIO Community Services, Alcoholics Anonymous, Alton Information Service, Alcoholic Rehabilitation Community Home, Alcoholic Treatment Center, American Cancer Society, Tri-City Chapter of the American Red Cross, Arthritis Foundation, Belleville Area

College Retired Senior Volunteer Program, Cahokia Mound Boy Scout Council, Call for Help (Suicide Prevention), Quad-Cities Catholic Charities, Catholic Children's Home, Madison Recreation Program, Congressman Melvin Price, and that's just the first six index pages in the inch-thick document.

The directory is the first phase of a new central information and referral program being established by the United Way, aided by the tax-supported and voluntarily-financed agencies that are entered in the day-to-day tasks associated with health, counseling, assistance, character-building, employment, activity and rehabilitation services.

Objectives along with the data collection and distribution include further steps to assure service accessibility and availability. The "bottom line" remains — increased efficiency and continuing adaptation to meet the public's ever-changing needs.

Illegal goods are not the same as potential evidence — this point makes it clear that the search ruling is wrong

Wall Street Journal — We have never been much moved by arguments that the press needs additional special protections beyond those the court interpretations of the Bill of Rights have provided.

Newspapers are on the firmest ground, we feel, when their rights are embodied in rights enjoyed by all the people.

We think we can hold to that principle and still disagree with the recent Supreme Court decision that upheld a 1971 police search of the offices of a Stanford University student newspaper.

In our view, it does not require a special brief for newspapers to be able to argue that the court is on dangerous ground in its recent interpretation. The search was in circumstances in which prosecutors and police may legitimately raid private property.

In the Stanford case, which had its origins in those hectic Vietnam war protests, the Palo Alto police invaded the Stanford Daily offices, armed with a search warrant to seek incriminating photographs.

A photographer for the paper had been seen photographing a campus demonstration in which a policeman had been assaulted.

The judge issuing the warrant, the prosecutor and the police obviously felt that their raid fell within the requirements of the Constitution.

They knew what they were looking for, where it would most likely be found, and that it would serve as evidence in a criminal trial.

They thus had cause to believe that they were not violating the Bill of Rights proscription against "unreasonable search and seizure."

A district court and appeals court disagreed, holding that even if the searchers had satisfied the Fourth Amendment, they had trampled on the freedom of the press protections of the First Amendment.

But the Supreme Court held, 5 to 3, that no First Amendment question was involved and that the Fourth Amendment permits such a search.

It is tempting to agree with the majority. If the police have the right to search a factory or a home, why shouldn't they have the same right to search a newspaper office?

Since photographs are easily destroyed, there might be some merit to the argument that an unannounced search was necessary to protect valuable evidence.

And as a practical matter, it may well be that the circumstances of the case are so rare there is little danger of judges issuing warrants to search newspapers willfully.

But we find that logic unsatisfying. We are uncomfortable with the image of police bursting into private premises of any kind under any but the most compelling circumstances.

And we find that logic unsatisfying. We are uncomfortable with the image of police bursting into private premises of any kind under any but the most compelling circumstances.

Justice Stevens points out in the fairly recent assertion by the high court that "mere evidence" can reasonably be the object of such a search. This was the theme of the dissent by Justice Stevens.

Justice Stevens points out that it was only in 1967, in Warden v. Hayden, that the court sanctioned the issuance of warrants to search for "mere evidence."

Previously, they had been limited to "contraband" (such as illegal drugs), weapons and plunder; a very narrow category usually involving some guilt by the owner of the premises.

With the inclusion of "evidence" — in other words, information — the category suddenly became very broad indeed.

And since information is the business of the press, any high court ruling that strengthens the 1967 position serves as an open invitation to skirmishes between the state and the press.

As Justice Stevens observes, it was just that sort of contest, in which magistrates might set out to grab private notes or papers, that the authors of the Fourth Amendment sought to prevent.

If the Stanford case does lead to a rash of newspaper searches, we suspect the court will have to look at the Fourth Amendment again.

It could be argued that the privacy rights of everyone against evidence-gathering raids without having to do newspapers a special favor.

We doubt that justice would suffer, since subpoena power would remain intact.

Unannounced raids could be allowed for contraband, while the owner of the premises in question could be given his day in court before having to deliver "mere evidence."

It is a significant irony that the Stanford search produced nothing. The Stanford Daily had no incriminating photographs other than the ones it had already published.

But now the general assembly has told the report won't be ready until July 10. The lawmakers are supposed to finish all their legislative work by the end of June.

After the legislature adjourns on June 30, the only way Gov. Thompson could implement the cost control group's recommendations would be by cutting spending through his veto power.

But the governor would not be able to increase spending in critical areas. We could do that when we come back next spring through additional appropriations, but by then the 1978-79 year will be almost over.

I know a lot of areas that need to give more money to the state budget. I hear from people with crying needs every day that I'm in Springfield.

Other states which have made similar studies have been able to identify about three percent of their state budgets that can be cut without reducing ser-

50-year term in rape case

Edward Harbor, 33, Akron, Ohio, has been sentenced by Circuit Judge A.A. Matosian to serve 50 years in prison after being found guilty of rape, aggravated battery and unlawful restraint.

Harbor, a truck driver, allegedly picked up a 17-year-old girl hitchhiker in Indiana in January and was giving her a ride to Joliet when he raped her repeatedly and beat her before letting her out of the truck in Madison County.

He was arrested near Troy a short time after she reported the incident to authorities.

The 50-year sentence is the longest ever given for a rape conviction in Madison County, according to Assistant State's Attorney Stephanie Robbins, who presented the prosecution at Harbor's trial.

Matosian used the state's "Class X" crime bill provisions for the sentence and doubled the maximum sentence for aggravated assault under a provision of that bill that maximum penalties can be doubled if exceptional brutality or wanton cruelty are proven.

His wife, who was present at the trial, said she was shocked by the sentence and the brutality of the crime.

Frederick Watson, 38, Washington Park, was sentenced to 10 years in prison for a conviction in Madison County today in the same case.

Watson was standing at the entrance to the 99-Junk Yard at that location when a vehicle passed at a high rate of speed and a shot was fired from the car, striking Watson's upper chest area. The bullet lodged near the base of his neck and his breast bone.

He went to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was examined and was transferred to the St. Louis hospital. Agents of the Illinois Division of Investigation interviewed Watson yesterday in his hospital room.

"We believe he probably does know who shot him, but it will be up to him to cooperate," Special Agent William Barrett stated. He said an arrest is possible this week.

Steve Meszaros, 68, of 3238 Princeton Drive, died at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday at St. Elizabeth Hospital, where he had been in the intensive care unit following an apparent heart attack he suffered while working in his yard.

He was given emergency medical treatment at the time of the attack at 4:10 p.m. Tuesday. Just before 4:10 p.m. Tuesday, two Granite City firemen who have been trained as emergency medical technicians, and then taken to the hospital.

Mr. Meszaros was a lifelong resident of Granite City, and was a member of Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church.

He was a retired employee of Nesco Barrel Co., where he worked for 45 years.

His wife, Mrs. Pauline Meszaros, died Nov. 14, 1976.

Survivors include one brother, John Meszaros, of St. Louis, Mo.; a sister, Mrs. Mary Markoff of Madison; nieces, nephews, sister-in-law and brother-in-law.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Off-track betting proposed in six regions by the cities of East St. Louis, Chicago, Rockford, Peoria, Decatur and Springfield was approved 87 Tuesday by the Senate Executive Committee, clearing the way for a referendum on the issue.

Final documents on the $2,000,000 estate of the late Secretary of State Paul Powell were filed Tuesday in the Johnson County Circuit Court, with a final hearing to be held July 10. Beneficiaries may receive the full amount but state tax receipts appear likely to be small.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency proposed Tuesday to set the basic health standard for ozone in the air at 0.10 parts per million, up from the 0.08 set in 1971.

The U.S. Supreme Court on Wednesday upheld 7-1 Maryland law forbidding oil producers or refiners from operating retail gasoline service stations.

$590 fine in gambling case

Queen Ester Dean, a Finnish Line Express employee who has been arrested several times in that firm's Granite City office, was found guilty Tuesday by Associate Judge George Moran Jr. of three counts of gambling and was fined a total of $590.

In an eight-page opinion, Moran said defense arguments that Miss Dean had good reason to believe her actions were legal were unreasonable.

"This court finds that defendant's belief that the activities were legal — if she, in fact, did so believe — were unreasonable. She had been expressly warned by the state's attorney and the Granite City Police Department that if she persisted in her activities as an employee of Finnish Line, she would be arrested and prosecuted," Moran's opinion stated.

Rice argued that a state law prohibiting such activities had been declared unconstitutional by the First Appellate Court in Chicago. Moran ruled that the Appellate Court decision is "not a final opinion," since it is being appealed to the Supreme Court, and our Supreme Court has concluded that this type of activity ought to be prohibited.

"They could reasonably believe that the activities of Finnish Line and those in similar businesses tend to corrupt all of those who follow them," Moran determined.

"A careful research by this court on this question such as reaffirms its belief in the illegality of defendant's conduct. Apparently the legislature and our Supreme Court have concluded that this type of activity ought to be prohibited."

"The governor should believe that the activities of Finnish Line and those in similar businesses tend to corrupt all of those who follow them," Moran determined.

"They could reasonably believe that Finnish Line and similar businesses profit at the expense of the poor and the mentally ill who have an uncontrollable compulsion to gamble," Moran said.

"The court concludes that the business of Finnish Line and those engaged in similar businesses closely parallel illegal bookmaking," he said.

"It is the opinion of this Court that to further continue this case for sentencing of the defendant would merely be a needless waste of judicial time. The defendant herself is merely an employee in a business engaged in organized criminal activity."

"A harsh sentence by this Court is not going to deter Finnish Line from committing similar illegal acts. The defendant can easily be replaced. The defendant is obviously a poorly educated woman who does not understand the implications of her conduct."

"No good reason exists to place the defendant on probation. No good reason exists to sentence her to jail. The nexus of the criminal conduct lies not with her but with the business itself. However, a severe sentence is necessary to reaffirm societal norms against this type of illegality and to maintain respect for the norms themselves."

After careful consideration, the Court has concluded that an appropriate sentence would be a fine five hundred dollars, $500, and 90 court costs.

Meanwhile, Finnish Line Express has applied to the city of Granite City for a business license under which to resume operations in Venice.

The application has been referred to Chief of Police Ralph Bragley who is to make an investigation into the background of Walter Rhodes of Chicago, president of Finnish Line, who requested the license.

Bragley is to report to the City Council which will meet June 20.

Thompson, Bakalis debate budget in first TV bout

Proposals by Bakalis to increase proposed expenditures for education, welfare and property tax relief would amount to about $225 million more than his proposed budget, Thompson replied.

The governor said there is "no way we can spend that kind of money without raising income taxes."

He accused Bakalis of being fiscally dishonest in his endorsement of legislation to expand property tax relief to include persons with annual incomes of up to $30,000.

The existing circuit-breaker law is said to be the elderly and disabled.

Bakalis replied that the cost could come from normal increases in state revenue such as the current tax rates. He said the average tax rebate would be close to $30.

In one point of agreement, both men said they will not support legalization of casino gambling in Illinois.

Bakalis supports legalization of off-track betting, which is being considered by legislators, but Thompson repeated there are questions yet to be answered before he will take a position on it.

The two men took strong verbal swipes at each other throughout the hour-long debate — the first live political debate broadcast statewide via radio.

Three other debates are scheduled before the two meet in the November general election. They will be held Sept. 6 in Carbondale, Sept. 19 in Peoria and Oct. 12 in Chicago.

CIVIL WAR CURRENCY minted by the Confederate States of America ranging in denominations from one to fifty dollars recently rediscovered by 61-year Granite City resident R. D. Able. The Confederate notes were taken from a safety deposit box to be photographed by the Press-Record. From top center are: $2 note issued in 1861 at Augusta, Georgia on silk; $5 note also from the state of Georgia;

$5, $10, $20 and $50 notes all issued by the Confederate States of America in Richmond, Virginia between 1862 and 1864; and a one-dollar note issued by the state of North Carolina on Oct. 2, 1861 at Raleigh which is also printed on silk. The Civil War era notes were obtained from several widows of Confederate soldiers approximately 70 years ago. The bills have since been put back in safekeeping at a local bank.

OBVERSE of a silk one-dollar note issued by the state of North Carolina in 1861 appears to be somewhat similar to present day currency. The Confederate note was marked as being good to the bearer until Jan. 1, 1866.

DETAILED REVERSE of the North Carolina one-dollar note shows that the bill was printed perpendicular to two, four-dollar notes which have the words "ONE DOLLAR" printed over in large red letters. This was not an uncommon practice as paper, and especially silk, was very scarce and expensive.

Two drivers hurt in crash

The auto of Dennis A. Lakin, 18, of Rural Route Two, Box 7127, Granite City, and Donald L. Heath, 45, of 2129 Missouri Ave., collided on State Aid Route 35 near Holiday Mobile Home Park last week, resulting in injuries to both drivers. Heath was ticketed for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident after his car allegedly struck the rear of Lakin's car, which was slowing for a turn. Lakin's jeep was pushed off the roadway and overturned several times before coming to a rest upside-down in a ditch.

Heath suffered injuries, but declined to be taken to the hospital.

Freedom and human rights challenged throughout world

(American Historic and Cultural Society)

Harsh reports on the status of human rights throughout the world surface frequently in the press. Amnesty International, the organization which received the 1977 Nobel peace prize, charged governments of both large and small nations with trampling the rights of their citizens.

Instances were cited of political prisoners being held under criminal law, or in extreme cases being executed for "political crimes."

In other indictments, U.S. congressmen who traveled abroad described their shock at the savagery at which a governing regime disposed of its opponents.

Contemporary Americans, comfortable in their assured liberties, by and large rarely focus serious attention on the human rights conflict. Few are apt to recall Abraham Lincoln's philosophical advice:

"In giving freedom to the slave, we assure freedom to the free — honorable alike in what we give and what we preserve."

One small step in gaining insight to human rights perplexities would be to examine the reproduction of Norman Rockwell's "Golden Rule" painting.

This assortment of faces, each with distinct ethnic characteristics, reflects the normal universal longing for freedom and dignity. Because national customs and ideals vary, perhaps each of these individuals would view human rights in a different light.

As Adlai Stevenson noted, "When an American says that he loves his country... he means that he loves an inner air, an inner light in which freedom lives and in which a man can draw the breath of self-respect."

In fundamental terms, human rights are appropriate liberties so natural to mankind that every man or woman has them in fact, or ought to have them by right.

In this category, the Declaration of Independence names life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. John Locke, the British philosopher, mentions the right of life, liberty and estates or property; freedom of religious conscience; the right to marry and have children and the rights of parents to teach their children.

In 1789 when the U.S. Constitution was ratified, Congress acted to add a Bill of Rights, and this was accomplished by the first ten amendments which were ratified by 1791.

While the amendments listed specific guarantees, the Ninth Amendment was designed to foreclose the arguments that rights which were not named were automatically excluded.

As automatic and reassuring as these warranties may seem, can this nation afford to become complacent about them?

Perhaps it is an alarmist viewpoint, yet, if one stops to consider how these stipulations have been destroyed in other countries, a watchful vigilance appears wise.

Leonard H. Marks, president of the American Historic and Cultural Society, underscores this concept with his appeal to all Americans for observance of Flag Day and Independence Day. "We hope that you will pay homage to the real significance that lies behind our symbolic celebration — the fact that we are a free nation."

This points up a meaningful fact. The Constitution's pledges extend an umbrella to all citizens.

It is not enough for groups of Americans to stand aside in time of crisis, attempting to justify their actions by the specious reasoning, "Well, that doesn't concern me."

President Harry S. Truman rebutted this attitude most effectively with the comment, "In the cause of freedom we have to battle for the rights of people with whom we may not agree, and whom, in many cases, we may not like... If we do not defend their rights, we endanger our own."

Wendell L. Wilkie expressed similar reasoning. "If we want to enjoy it (freedom)," he said, "... we must be prepared to extend it to everyone whether they are rich or poor, no matter what their race or the color of their skin."

And Frederick Douglass noted, "I know of no rights of race superior to the rights of humanity."

Without strong pronouncements and within the bounds of diplomacy, our government has reportedly applied pressure on several countries to assist those deprived of their human rights.

Certain regimes have been accused of offenses, ranging from mass kidnappings and detentions to torture and deprivation of political and property rights.

In related moves, the United States has rejected or obtained from approving loans to nations pursuing repressive tactics toward their citizens.

Such steps are in keeping with American traditions of democracy and fair play. They also reflect the conclusions of distinguished leaders and thinkers, not only in the United States, but in other countries with similar basic beliefs.

About a century ago John Stuart Mill, British economist and philosopher, wrote, "The only freedom deserving of the name of freedom is the freedom of pursuing our own good in our own way, so long as we do not attempt to deprive others of theirs."

And Chief Justice Earl Warren said in 1954, "... For no people of any race will long remain slaves. Our strength is in our diversity. Our power is in freedom of thought and research."

"Liberty does not consist... in mere declarations of the rights of man," President Woodrow Wilson said. "It consists in the translation of these declarations into definite actions."

So again, the Rockwell painting is worth a second look. The words of the Golden Rule emphasize the deep desires of people in every corner of the globe for personal liberty, and the wish to live in harmony with their neighbors, free from governmental tyranny.

Boys on motorbike injured

Two boys, ages 14 and 15, injured seriously when their motorbike and the car of Harold Perryman, 2645 E. 24th St., collided at 13th and Carr streets at 5:10 p.m. Tuesday.

Brian Howerton, 15, of 1926 Sken St., Madison, a passenger on the motorbike, suffered injuries to his head, neck and back and was transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis, after being examined at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Kent Warren Jr., 14, of 2039 Harris St., Madison, who was driving the motorbike, suffered a broken left leg and a cut to his left calf and was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Perryman said he was driving around the curve on Carr Street when the motorbike came at him in his lane and he was unable to avoid a head-on crash. The motorbike left 15 yards of skid marks before impact, police noted.

A ticket was issued to Warren charging him with driving without a license and another was issued to his mother, Mrs. Judith A. Warren, 31, charging her with permitting an unauthorized person to drive a motor vehicle.

He was believed gained by using a credit card or cash-board to open the door lock.

SUFFERS HEAD CUT
Mike Bocek, 21, of Florissant, Mo., an employee of American Steel Foundries here, was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital at 3 p.m. Tuesday for a laceration to the head after being struck by a chain while working. He was released after treatment.

There were 43 members and their fathers attending the breakfast.

As a fund raising project the bethe will sponsor a car wash from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, July 8, at Yates Mobil Station, Ponton and Nameoki roads. Fee for a wash was set at $2.50 with an additional $1 charge to clean and vacuum the inside, it was announced.

Break-in foiled

A 67-year-old woman residing in the 2110 block of East 23rd St., was awakened at 4 a.m. Wednesday by noises in the kitchen and investigated to find a young man sticking his head through a kitchen window he had opened.

The woman screamed at the young man to get out and he left, running away with his hands in the air, she told police. There were signs the youth had tried to open three other windows before finding one unlocked.

No. 26 34 6 15

State Park police to dispose of squad car

The State Park volunteer police unit has ended hopes for reacquiring and will turn over ownership of its police car to the State Park Volunteer Fire Department, the Nameoki Township Board of Trustees was told during the board's regular meeting Monday night.

The department has been under "a final warning" since Feb. 27 that it must reactivate or lose the department's squad car, which was purchased by the township with federal community development grant funds.

In March, it did reorganize for one day under Billy Joe Hayes as chief, but political differences and a lack of manpower then made it clear the department could not continue to operate.

Nameoki Township Supervisor Harold Davis reported to the board that he had discussed the problems with policemen in the department and Davis stated, "They just don't want it (the car) anymore. Nobody wants to operate it."

Hayes, who was in the audience, said the State Park Fire Department had indicated it could find a use for the car, which then would continue to aid State Park. The vehicle would be covered by the fire department's fleet insurance at little or no additional cost, it was noted.

Township Attorney Irvin C. Slate Jr. contended the township purchased the car illegally and there is no lawful way the township can transfer its ownership.

"The township did not have the right to buy the car (with revenue sharing funds) and turn it over to the police department," Slate said, noting he did not feel the transaction was properly handled. "It was an illegal transaction to start out with," he told the board.

He advised the trustees that, since they are not the owners of the car, at this time, they take no official actions in the transfer of ownership to the fire department.

The board unanimously passed a motion to go on record as being "in favor of" the transfer.

In other business, the board turned down a request from Venice Township for Nameoki to provide mosquito spraying in Venice Township on a reimbursement basis.

Venice Township Supervisor

Christ Passhoff told Davis that his township does not have mosquito spraying equipment and offered to reimburse Nameoki Township for spraying in Venice Township.

Davis told the board that the truck currently is being used at its full potential for one shift each day and that to expand the area to be served would require it be used two shifts.

"This is going to put us in a bind, manpower-wise," Davis said in recommending that the request be denied. The board concurred.

Nameoki Highway Commissioner Frank Metcalf said he has objected to the Illinois Commerce Commission about the condition of three rail crossings, particularly the Reveille Lane crossing, and the ICC has agreed to send an inspector to study the complaints.

Davis reported that "constantly shifting" federal guidelines have made it necessary to completely revise the application for Community Development funds to install a large water main to the Cloverleaf Addition near Madison, but that it appears construction may begin about Aug. 1.

He said the Illinois-American Water Co. (new name for the East St. Louis and Interurban Water Co.) will have to submit a new bid for the work after July 1, but it appears Community Development funds may be used for the work if the city of Madison will agree to pay for the rental of fire hydrants in the subdivision, using money the township will give the city.

Trustee Norman Hessler reported an amended complaint has been filed in Madison County Circuit Court attempting to recover about $9,598 from former Nameoki Township Supervisor Louis Whitsell which he paid his wife in part time salaries from general assistance funds.

The Illinois Department of Public Aid has withheld some general assistance reimbursements from the township, saying that the salaries Whitsell paid his wife were not authorized expenditures and must be reimbursed to the department.

Whitsell says he has letters from public aid which indicated he could continue to hire his wife, but to mark her salary as "unauthorized" until there was a final determination.

Associate Judge Clayton Williams dismissed the township's original suit, saying it did not show where the township had been damaged. Since then, public aid has withheld some funds from the township's general assistance reimbursement request, and Hessler contends that is proof the township is being harmed as the result of Whitsell's actions.

The board approved routine agreements with the highway department, Nameoki volunteer police unit, Long Lake Fire Department and State Park Street Lighting District which will be necessary when revenue sharing funds are distributed to those departments.

Bills paid totaled $3,344 from the town fund, $2,281 from revenue sharing, $1,989 from municipal retirement, $2,275 from the road and bridge fund, $4,194 from the special hard road fund, $1,861 from general assistance and $862 from the anti-recession fiscal assistance fund.

CONTRACTORS HOME IMPROVEMENTS

Madison County, through the Community Development Department, is involved in numerous home rehabilitation grant and loan programs on a county-wide basis. As this is the fourth year of a six year program, and there will be an increasing dollar expenditure for home rehabilitation activities, it is necessary that we develop a list of reputable contractors who are willing to cooperate with us on these projects. Requirements for addition to the list include insurability and a proven capability in home improvements.

The Qualified Contractors list will serve as a mailing list and enable the various programs to send Invitations to Bid to the contractors of their choice.

If you are interested or need additional information, please contact Bill Amerson, Madison County Community Development, 692-4387 or 692-4386.

Jobless are to install solar heating in low-income homes

About a thousand low-income families in a dozen communities across the nation will get energy-saving solar heating for their homes, and several hundred unemployed workers will be trained to install this equipment under a federally-supported demonstration.

The Departments of Labor (DOL) and Energy (DOE) and the Community Services Administration (CSA) have announced their agreement to initiate the one-year program. Purpose is to demonstrate the feasibility of coordinating energy conservation, job creation and training, housing, and community economic development—all with the aim of increasing employment and small business opportunities, broadening the use of solar technology, and assisting needy families.

An interagency committee will develop the program for operation in the 1978-79 fiscal year, with initial funding of $3 million by the three agencies. They will provide technical assistance to sponsors, give training for small businesses, monitor and evaluate the projects, and disseminate results.

Signers of the memorandum of understanding were:

Ernest G. Green, assistant secretary for employment and training, DOL.

Donald Beattie, acting assistant secretary for conservation and solar applications, DOE.

Robert N. Smith, assistant director for community action, CSA.

The participating communities will be selected so as to test the program in a variety of environments, both urban and rural.

The departments of Agriculture, Commerce, and Housing and Urban Development and the Small Business Administration have expressed interest in participating in the program.

DOL funds, authorized by the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), will flow through state and local governments serving as prime sponsors.

The funds will pay the wages of participants in public service employment and on-the-job training who assemble and install solar equipment, and for local administration.

DOE will use part of its funds for equipment and materials used in training these workers. DOE and CSA will share the cost of solar water heaters and space heating systems, and both will coordinate the program with their existing "weatherization" programs for the poor.

Local-level projects, half of which are expected to be community action agencies, will recommend which homes are to receive solar equipment. The interagency agreement lists three objectives:

Creating training and job opportunities linked to prospects for unsubsidized employment in the growing solar industry.

Stimulating community acceptance of practical solar energy applications through visibility, familiarity and active participation by local groups.

Reducing non-renewable energy resource consumption by practical applications of solar technology at lower economic levels, and Helping to develop a labor supply possessing the skills needed for current and projected demand in the solar construction, installation, maintenance and repair industry.

The agreement is one of several being negotiated by the Employment Training Administration with a variety of federal agencies to expedite establishment of public service employment projects which combine CETA funds and resources with funds from other agencies to meet common national program goals.

Firms being asked to consent to inspections

The U.S. Department of Labor's Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) has announced it has directed field staffs to continue to conduct workplace inspections using the same method of scheduling as before the May 23 Supreme Court decision and, as required by that decision, to seek a warrant when an employer refuses entry.

Dr. Eula Bingham, assistant secretary of labor who heads OSHA, said the court made it clear that "the great majority of businessmen can be expected in normal course to consent to the inspection without warrant."

"We in OSHA share that belief, and hope that most employers will consent," Dr. Bingham said.

"When they do not, our compliance safety and health officers have been instructed to deal with such refusals in a courteous and responsible manner, leave the premises promptly, contact Labor Department attorneys, and obtain a warrant as quickly as possible."

Dr. Bingham explained that the court decision spelled out the circumstances under which it contemplated a warrant could be issued.

In the case of worker complaints or catastrophe investigations, OSHA is clearly in a position to justify the issuance of a warrant," she noted.

"But the court does not require specific evidence of an existing violation at the workplace," she said. "The court said employers' rights would be adequately safeguarded if we show that reasonable legislative or administrative standards for conducting an inspection are satisfied, with respect to a particular establishment," she added.

Dr. Bingham said OSHA's priority system for conducting inspections should fulfill that requirement.

The system gives first attention to catastrophe and worker complaint situations, followed by scheduled industry inspections based on such criteria as injury rates, worker population and the like.

Further, she noted, her policy has long been to direct 95 percent of OSHA's scheduled inspection activity toward establishments in designated high-risk industries.

In another area, Dr. Bingham said instructions have been given to regional offices to communicate OSHA's plan of operation to labor commissioners in states that have their own job safety and health programs. Commissioners are expected to communicate with their attorneys general to determine the appropriate course of action under state law.

"I hope," Dr. Bingham concluded, "that we will be able to safeguard employers' rights as required by the Supreme Court, without hampering our ability to spot-check their establishments to assure they are meeting their responsibility of providing a safe and healthful workplace for their employees."

The lieutenant governor said, "I recently released a program planning document for reclaiming abandoned mined land in 51 counties, including over 23,000 acres in the state. The Staunton project demonstrates what can be done in reclaiming scarred mined land and making it environmentally workable."

Prior to construction and reclamation, the 34-acre Staunton site consisted of three parcels of land which were causing major environmental problems. Acid runoff and erosion from all three parcels were said to be affecting the water quality of nearby Cahokia Creek.

On Sept. 15, 1976, site development began. Construction activities were completed on April 29, 1977, and a final inspection occurred on May 25, 1977. Construction costs were funded by the Abandoned Mined Lands Reclamation Council.

FOURTH ANNUAL BIKE-A-THON to benefit the American Cancer Society is scheduled Sunday, June 25. Joe Lucido, left, chairman of the event stands with Gene Crevillo, executive director of the American Cancer Society, for Madison County.

Fourth 'Bike-a-thon' for Cancer Society

A bicycle ride while helping the American Cancer Society continue its service to cancer patients and support vital research work is planned for Sunday, June 25.

Joe Lucido, chairman for this event, recently announced the date for the fourth annual Bike-a-Thon.

"Adults, children and teens are being encouraged to take part in this fun day program," Lucido said. Two bicycles will be awarded to the persons collecting the most in donations by means of pledges from friends, relatives and neighbors who act as sponsors.

The ride will start at Niedringhaus School, 29th and States streets, with registration beginning at noon. Cyclists will start the ride at 1 p.m. sharp.

Before the ride gets underway, each participant will receive a kit containing a check point card, map of the route, a Bike-a-Thon patch, and set of instructions. The course for the ride remains the same as in the past.

Starting at Niedringhaus School, the cyclists will proceed south on State to 18th, west on 18th to Benton, north on Benton to the 27th Street Parkway, east on 27th to State and north on State back to the starting point.

Prizes to participants will be new bicycles, one for the male rider collecting the most money in 30 days, and one for the female collecting the most money in 30 days. Everyone has the same chance to win. The object is to secure as many sponsors as possible, Lucido said.

Harold Day dies of crash injuries

Funeral services were to be held at 1 p.m. today at a Fairview Heights funeral home for Harold L. Day, 48, of Cahokia, father of Mrs. Darla Hanon of Granite City.

Mr. Day died this week at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis, of injuries suffered in a three-car collision in front of the K-mart store on Route 40, Collinsville, during the weekend.

He is survived by another daughter, two sons, four brothers and two sisters.

Juveniles set car afire

Two boys, ages 7 and 8, face possible juvenile court actions after they allegedly set fire to a junked car in the 2100 block of Lincoln Avenue at 5:10 p.m. Tuesday.

Granite City firemen extinguished the fire, which gutted the auto and damaged another junked car beside it in the junk yard. A witness said two boys ran from the scene. After police left the scene, the boys returned to examine the burned auto and the witness notified police they were back. Officers responded to the scene and one boy ran when he saw a squad car approach.

The other boy was apprehended and allegedly admitted being involved in the incident. Police were able to identify the boy who ran from the scene and he later was taken into custody.

The two allegedly said they were playing around vehicles, crawled into a camper on a pickup truck and removed some matches and a knife.

They then entered a junked car and one set the seat on fire with the matches, police were told. They ran to one boy's house until the fire was out and then returned to examine the damage, the boys said, according to police.

METABOLIC DISEASES

CAUSE BEING SOUGHT

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has been awarded $32,100 from the National Institutes of General Medical Sciences for continuation of research entitled "Factors Influencing Rates of Enzyme Degradation." The project, now in its third year, may lead to the cause of metabolic diseases resulting from a deficiency of enzymes, the chemicals responsible for catalyzing various reactions that occur within living cells.

Determining what regulates enzyme degradation and how to control this process may help find the key to curing metabolic diseases caused by malfunction in enzyme degradation, Michael Levy said. He is director of the project and Biological Sciences Department professor and chairman.

Percy sees growing demand for reform of Civil Service

Public hearings conducted by Senator Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.) in three Illinois cities have shown strong support for reform of the federal Civil Service system.

Percy, the ranking member of the Senate's Governmental Affairs Committee, conducted the hearings this month in Springfield, Rock Island, and East St. Louis.

"Witnesses told me in hearing testimony that far too many federal employees serve their own self-interest instead of the public interest," Percy said. "It's high time we revamped the Civil Service system to make merit firing as important as merit hiring."

Percy noted that the law relates that federal employees can be fired for "cause." But complex appeals procedures and rigid standards of evidence have made this law impractical, Percy said.

"In 1976, only 17,000 federal employees were fired. That's less than one per cent of all federal employees."

"Only 226 employees, or one out of every 10,000, were fired for incompetence or unacceptable performance."

The federal government employs about 2.8 million people at an annual cost of $49 billion. About two million of these employees work within the Civil Service system.

The Governmental Affairs Committee will soon complete work on a major Civil Service reform bill, first proposed by the Administration in March.

Percy called the bill the most sweeping Civil Service reform ever considered.

"Civil Service reform addresses the very quality of service that government provides to citizens. Taxpayers deserve what they pay for — namely, prompt, courteous and professional service from federal employees."

Testifying at Percy's hearing in Rock Island, Dr. Alan Campbell, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, said Civil Service efficiency is essential because one-third of the nation's economy is devoted to the public sector.

"If we do not operate effectively and efficiently with that (public) sector, it can well be a drag on our total economy," Campbell said.

Charles Shuma, a former state director of Illinois for the United States Department of Agriculture, testified at the Springfield hearing that the present system does not allow supervisors enough discretion in recognizing high performance.

"I found supervisors willing to put up with inferior performance rather than initiate separation or downgrading action," he said.

Missouri's former governor, Christopher Bond, who testified at the East St. Louis hearing, told of his frustration in dealing with federal agencies.

"The decision-maker, we have been told, is not at that office, is away from his desk, is on vacation, or is at some place in Washington with a phone number no one has readily available," Bond said.

At the conclusion of the hearings, Percy emphasized what he regards as the need to pass Civil Service reform legislation before Congress adjourns later this year.

POSSESSION CHARGED

William Sweet, 20, of 1020 Madison Ave., was charged with unlawful possession of cannabis at 9:30 p.m. Friday after police stopped his car at Nameki and Johnson roads. Police said they stopped a car after they observed it strike the median and alleged they found five rolled cigarettes and a substance that appeared to be marijuana.

Bus to Redbird Helmet Day game

A bus trip to the St. Louis Baseball Cardinals' popular Helmet Day game on Sunday, June 25, is planned by the Tri-City Area YMCA.

The Redbirds meet the Montreal Expos in a 1:15 p.m. game that day.

Donald R. Rains, "Y" program director, said a bus will leave the local YMCA, located at 2001 Edison Ave., at 11:30 a.m. June 25 for Busch Memorial Stadium, St. Louis.

Total cost of the reserved infield lodge seats and the round trip bus fare is $5 per person.

Each child, 14 years and under attending, will receive a St. Louis Baseball Cardinal helmet, Rains said. Fathers and sons, mothers and daughters, or entire families are invited to take advantage of the special excursion rates, the YMCA officer advised.

Tickets are limited to 54 people, so their distribution will be on a first-come, first-served basis, he added. Those wishing to make a reservation may call Rains at 878-7200, or stop by the YMCA. Parking of private vehicles near the YMCA building on a Sunday will be no problem for those traveling on the bus, Rains pointed out.

Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there.

Summertime and vacation safety

By MARY RICHARDS
Illinois Department of Public Health

The end of the school year is with us, and the closing of school means the beginning of vacation trips for thousands of Illinois families.

Summer vacation is, for many of us, the one chance we have during the year to "get away from it all" to relax and enjoy ourselves.

In order to help you enjoy your vacation trip more, the Illinois Department of Public Health has some vacation safety tips. Take a few minutes to read them before you go on your vacation.

DRIVING. Summer roads tempt too many drivers to speed, so be extra watchful of these "fair weather racers." Also, when driving, stay alert and drive for weather conditions. For example, slow down in a rainstorm.

Don't let your anxiety to arrive at your vacation spot let you forget that, in the rain, roads often become slippery and visibility hampered.

On superhighways, take an occasional break so you won't become hypnotized. Illinois highways, incidentally, are dotted with nice rest areas for travelers who want to stop for a break.

While riding, keep your car well ventilated. And, if you're stalled in traffic on a hot day, shift to neutral and fast idle.

Above all, follow the rules of the road — drive defensively — and always use your seat belts.

SUN SAFETY. When you arrive at your vacation spot and are ready for some fun in the sun, keep in mind that there can be some health hazards connected with the sun.

So, take the sun in small doses at first. Use sunglasses and suntan lotion for protection.

When the temperature rises, drink plenty of water to make up for body fluids lost through perspiration.

Sunburn, heat exhaustion and sunstroke are hazards to guard against, not only while you're on vacation, but all summer long.

Sunburned skin will be reddened and hot. Apply burn ointment or cold cream to relieve pain in mild cases. For severe cases involving blisters or extensive burns, apply a dry dressing and get medical attention.

Heat exhaustion is caused by hard physical effort in extreme heat. The victim's face is pale; the skin is cold and clammy; perspiration is heavy; and breathing shallow. Place the victim in the shade on his back with his head slightly lowered. Loosen the clothing and get medical help.

Sunstroke, which is caused by overexposure to the sun or heat, differs from heat exhaustion in that the victim's face will be red and dry; the skin will be hot; and his temperature high.

Breathing may be slow and noisy, and the victim may lose consciousness. You should place the victim on his back, in the shade, with his head slightly raised. Loosen clothing; sponge with alcohol or lukewarm water, and get medical help.

STINGS AND BITES. Getting back to nature during the summer can be great, but be cautious about insects and snakes.

Some insect stings may cause dangerous allergic reactions (bees, wasps, hornets, etc.) — some are poisonous (black widow and brown recluse spiders, scorpions) — and some may carry disease (certain mosquitoes and ticks).

In the event of a bite by a poisonous insect, the best thing to do is to call a doctor immediately.

Usually snakes will not bother you if you leave them alone. If your vacation takes you to snake country, be sure to carry a snake-bite kit, and know how to use it.

Remember that only four kinds of American snakes are poisonous — coral, rattlesnake, cottonmouth and copperheads.

In case of a poisonous snake bite, place a loose tourniquet between the bite and the trunk of the body. Then, get to a doctor or hospital quickly.

Telephone ahead, if possible. All-in-all, the best advice this summer is to use your good common sense to help prevent accidents that could take the enjoyment out of your vacation.

If you want more information about summer safety, write to: Illinois Department of Public Health, Division of Education and Information, 525 W. Jefferson, Springfield, Ill. 62761.

Public aid checks sent to banks are curbing loss

The Department of Public Aid said Monday there has been a "dramatic reduction" in the number of lost or stolen public assistance checks.

The agency credits the initiation of its direct delivery program with reducing the number of lost or stolen checks from a high of more than 12,000 a month in 1975 to a current total of less than 1,000 monthly.

Public Aid Director Arthur Quern said that prior to direct delivery, the department had to process forgery claims for more than $1.5 million a year due to the high volume of lost or stolen checks.

"Fortunately, the problem has almost disappeared," Quern said. "While we are sending out just about as many checks as we were in 1975 ($62,000 a month), now we have reduced the number of lost and stolen checks to under 1,000 a month of these, 94 percent are confirmed 'stop payments,' resulting in no waste or duplication of payments."

"We can credit the direct delivery program with savings of more than $75,000 a month for Illinois taxpayers, substantially reducing the number of public aid clients who must deal with the problems caused when these checks are lost or stolen."

"Direct delivery was initiated during the proper assistance check to the proper payee. Under the system, fewer checks are stolen and the possibility of forgery is practically eliminated.

"Recipients benefit because they always receive their checks promptly. In fact, under direct delivery, every check has arrived at the designated financial institution on time."

"What makes it work? To get the right check to the right person, all direct delivery checks are mailed to the financial institutions, banks, savings and loans and currency exchanges of the recipients' choice, rather than to individual homes."

"Recipients no longer have to look in their mailboxes for checks that might have been stolen. Instead, their checks are waiting at the financial institutions."

Recipients have five days to pick up their checks. Each recipient must produce a proper photo identification card, provided free by the department.

"A current Medical Eligibility Card and one other means of identification are also required."

"These checks not claimed by the end of the fifth day are returned to the comptroller's office to be voided. An average of $75,000 per month or $9.42 million per year is being returned to the comptroller's office for voiding."

"Direct delivery offers yet another protection in that safety checks—money orders payable to recipients in any amount—are provided free of charge."

"This lessens the need for carrying large sums of cash outside the financial institutions. Often, bill payments can be mailed at the same place the recipients pick up their assistance checks."

"Any public assistance recipient in a direct delivery county can have his or her check mailed in this way. Of recipients in Cook County, 89.7 percent of those under Aid to Families with Dependent Children are participants in direct delivery, and 92 percent of those under General Assistance have their checks mailed in this way."

"There is no charge for the service. However, there is a customary fee charged if the check is cashed at a currency exchange."

"Because direct delivery has played so successful a part in the department's programs to reduce ineligibility, avoid duplicate assistance, and make sure the right person gets the correct amount of assistance," Director Quern said, "we are now considering instituting the system in five more counties in the near future."

Volunteers aid kidney patients during dialysis

Adult volunteers, including retired men and women, as well as mature junior volunteers who qualify may now work in the Chronalloy chronic kidney dialysis unit. Volunteers may choose to work from 9 a.m. to 12 noon or from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. any day, Monday through Friday, at Barnes Hospital. Free parking is provided.

The average dialysis patient must come in three times a week for from four to six hours each visit.

During these hours, the patients are connected to dialysis machines and are confined either to a bed or a lounge chair.

Volunteers assist the patients in a number of ways, including making telephone calls, buying newspapers, candy and magazines, setting up lunch trays, bringing drinks, making beds, or providing personal attention and friendly conversation.

Dr. Hershel Harter, medical director of the unit, said this week, "We feel that volunteers can make a dual contribution, both by helping to make the time spent on dialysis a more positive experience for the patients, and by helping staff members with other tasks so that they may have more time for the patients."

Graduates with high honors

Miss Jayne Elizabeth Knobbe, rated as an outstanding student throughout her four years at DePaul University in Greencastle, Ind., graduated summa cum laude at the 1978 commencement exercises held at the university East College lawn before nearly 5,000 persons.

She received a bachelor of arts degree in history and will attend St. Louis University School of Law in the fall semester.

Diplomas earned by 501 seniors in the College of Liberal Arts, the School of Nursing and the School of Music, plus those earned by 78 master's degree candidates, were presented by Dr. Richard F. Rosser, president.

Miss Knobbe received honors during her enrollment at the university, including senior honors for maintaining a 3.5 and over grade point average for eight semesters from Alpha Lambda Delta, a national honorary society for freshman students.

She also received honorary senior women's award in the history department. As a junior, she was elected to be student representative in the History Department for both her junior and senior years.

As an elected representative, she participated in decision-making processes regarding hiring and promotion, curriculum changes and setting general policy in the History Department.

While attending DePaul University, Miss Knobbe enrolled in DePaul's Western Europe program and with 31 DePaul students went to Germany in January 1977 to study in the university's special international program at the University of Freiburg.

All students studied the German language at some proficiency level while at Freiburg and courses in 20th century European literature, politics, economics, art and history were offered by their German professors.

The semester concluded with four weeks in Aix-en-Provence with the students getting a taste of another aspect of Western Europe.

Miss Knobbe is a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority and in March this year received Phi Beta Kappa honors. She was among 25 DePaul seniors whose election to the National Scholastic Society was announced by Dr. Gordon Walters, president of the university's faculty chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Selection represents the highest academic honor possible in liberal arts and is based on the student's cumulative college grade point average.

Miss Knobbe is the daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Edward A. Knobbe, 2 Frontenac, and is a 1974 graduate of Granite City High School South.

Driver faces seven charges

Jerry McDonald, 22, of 2213 Dawn Ave., faces seven traffic charges after Granite City police stopped his car in the 2200 block of East 25th Street about noon Monday.

Officers alleged seeing his auto southbound at a high rate of speed on Madison Avenue at 27th Street and a squad car chased it with a red light and siren, the officer reporting the car was pulling to the curb at 26th Street.

However, the vehicle then turned onto 26th Street and left at a high rate of speed to Iowa Street, then to East 25th Street and through a stop sign at East 25th Street and Washington Avenue, the officer alleged.

The chase continued on Washington to Hodges Avenue, then to Hall Street, through a stop sign at Hall and East 25th streets, and the auto then pulled into a driveway in the 2200 block of East 25th Street and stopped, police reported.

The driver was arrested there and was charged with fleeing from officers, reckless driving, driving the wrong way on two one-way streets, and violating three stop signs.

A passenger in the car was released without being charged. McDonald was taken before Associate Judge Thomas Gibbons who agreed to accept his driver's license as bond and ordered him released at 1:35 p.m. Monday.

BLESSING OF THE FLEET program on the Mississippi June 25 is discussed by, from left, Marilyn Aten, U.S. Coast Guard public relations officer; Frank Burkhardt, the Rev. Edward Schlattmann of Our Lady of the Rivers, Inc., and Auxiliary Vice-captain Francis Stiens.

CHIEF OF STAFF NAMED
Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Neal has announced the appointment of Christopher George Atchison of Springfield as his new chief of staff. Atchison is currently employed by the Republican State Central Committee. He will join O'Neal's staff on July 17 at a salary of $28,000 per year.

Venice schools add holiday

The Venice Board of Education, meeting Thursday night, revised the tentative school calendar for 1978-79 by adding a holiday on Columbus Day, Oct. 9, and then approved O'Neal's staff on July 17 at a salary of $28,000 per year.

the calendar.

The board also accepted the resignation of Mrs. Tommie Bailey, a Title VII aide in the Venice schools for the past 10 years, who is planning to return to college.

Members voted to postpone the regular June 22 meeting to June 29, at 7:30 p.m., to permit transacting any year-end business, concerning Venice-Lincoln Technical Center whose fiscal year concludes June 30.

Supt. of Schools Robert N. Vickers was authorized to start preparing the 1978-79 school budget and advertise bids for cafeteria supplies, gasoline and fuel oil.

The board also approved a request by Venice Mayor William "Mike" Ebersoldt to use the Venice-Lincoln center buses to transport senior residents to a monthly workshop at Belleville Area College, providing the city arranges insurance coverage and pays the expenses of a driver.

Board President Jack Tolliver said area banking institutions will be contacted to discuss any available means of assistance to help alleviate the Venice district's serious financial problems.

Blessing of the Fleet, boat parade set June 25

Thousands of spectators and boat enthusiasts again will gather at the Shrine of Our Lady of the Rivers at Portage des Sioux, Mo., on Sunday, June 25, to view the 21st annual Blessing of the Fleet and boat parade on the Mississippi River.

The event, conducted and regulated by the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, drew about 700 boats last year. It is held in conjunction with National Safe Boating Week and is considered to be the biggest boating event of the year in the area.

The boat parade, which is open to any boater, will be made up of two sections. Section One will leave the Yacht Club of St. Louis at 1:30 p.m. and proceed downstream toward the Shrine.

Section Two will start from Harbor Point Yacht Harbor at 1:30 p.m., proceed upstream along the Illinois shore and fall in line behind Section One at an assembly point in the Slim and Portage Island area near River Mile 215 at approximately 2:45 p.m. Each section will be led by an official Auxiliary boat with a "Follow Me" sign.

The parade then will proceed in single file order and pass the Shrine at about 3 p.m. Boaters located between the starting points and the assembly point may join in either section as it passes their area. Anchoring will not be allowed in the Shrine area.

Boaters are encouraged to decorate their boats and separate prizes will be awarded for the best decorated houseboat, cruiser, runabout and sailboat.

The local Jaycees will hold their annual festival near St. Francis Church in Portage.

There will be food, refreshments and entertainment. The Rev. Edward B. Schlattmann, until recently pastor of Immaculate Conception Church in West Alton, Mo., has conducted the blessing ceremonies since they began.

This year Bishop John Wurm, pastor of the Old Cathedral in St. Louis, will bless the boats, assisted by the Rev. Schlattmann and the Rev. Joseph McIntyre, CM, chaplain of St. Vincent's Hospital in Normandy.

Auxiliary Captain Joseph A. Kretschmer of Division VII said, "There will be 37 Auxiliary boats patrolling and regulating the boat parade. A lot of work and planning have gone into the operation of the event. We have always had a good safety record, and the impressive entourage is a sight worth seeing."

The Auxiliary's co-chairmen of the Blessing of the Fleet are Vice-captain Francis Stiens of Division III and Vice-captain Francis Aldwin of Division VII. The blessing ceremony will mark the 27th anniversary of the flood that swelled the Missouri River in 1951. The flood spread across the lowlands to Portage des Sioux. The Rev. Schlattmann, then pastor of St. Francis Church, gathered the parishioners to pray that the waters would recede. When they did, the little village had suffered only minimal damage and no deaths, a spokesman noted.

The Rev. Schlattmann then began the concerted effort to express thanksgiving, and with the help of members of Our Lady of the Rivers, Inc., and others, the unique statue of Mary was erected. It has received international recognition and the Corps of Engineers has designated it as an aid to navigation, marked on all charts.

Given 1 year on probation

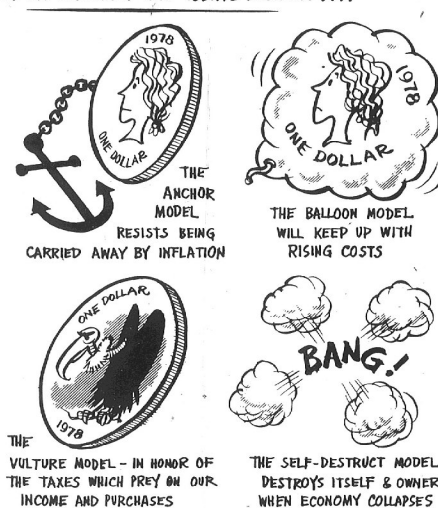

Circuit Judge Joseph J. Barr has sentenced Clarence Reed, 153 Viola Jones Homes, Venice, to serve one year of probation after Reed pleaded guilty to unlawful restraint.

Reed was named in informational documents alleging felony counts of aggravated battery and unlawful restraint, which alleged he used a gun to hold Virgie Lee Bush captive Nov. 28, 1977, and struck the victim with the gun.

The aggravated battery charge was dismissed after Reed pleaded guilty to unlawful restraint.

Tuition waiver for field supervisors

An amendment to the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees' Code of Policy authorizing tuition and fee waivers for field instructors in cooperating agencies and institutions where graduate students of the SIU at Edwardsville social work program are placed was approved by the board last week. Approximately 20 tuition and fee waivers are involved.

According to university officials, SIUE graduate students in the program are required to participate in a field experience program when they near completion of their degree requirements.

Students receive 12 credit hours for 300 actual hours of experience in a social welfare agency under the supervision of a staff member of the agency.

This requirement may be met in one or two consecutive quarters.

At present, the field instructors receive no compensation from the university. Some field instructors accept more than one student to supervise each quarter.

University officers said field instructors provide learning and training opportunities, supervise and evaluate the student's field work, and provide insights for the student in the application of classroom knowledge to actual experiences.

The amendment provides that tuition for the number of hours enrolled in the university at the graduate level and the student activity fee be waived for directly-assigned field instructors in the agencies and institutions cooperating in the social work program.

Such waivers will be awarded on the basis of one academic term's waiver of tuition and activity fee for each 12 student credit hours of work performed under the supervision of the instructor.

The amendment also provides that such waivers may be used for any academic term, beginning within one year of the term during which the social work student was assigned to the instructor and completed the 12-credit-hour requirement.

Arch ramps to be repaired

The polished aggregate concrete surfaced entrance ramps at the Gateway Arch have some areas of deteriorated surface which will be repaired under contract at an estimated cost of $12,000 to $15,000.

Robert S. Chandler, superintendent of the memorial, said the ramps were originally constructed in 1966 when the Arch was built.

The entrance ramps at the Gateway Arch are surfaced with a two and one-half inch thickness of polished aggregate finish course which was poured over a roughened structural slab.

The surface course was constructed in four foot by four foot square panels which are separated by metal dividing strips. The deteriorated surface course will be removed and replaced under the contract.

Interested bidders may obtain copies of the specifications for the work at the 11 N. 4th St. office or by telephone (314) 425-6006. Sealed bids will be received until 2 p.m. June 30 in Room 212 at 11 N. 4th St., St. Louis.

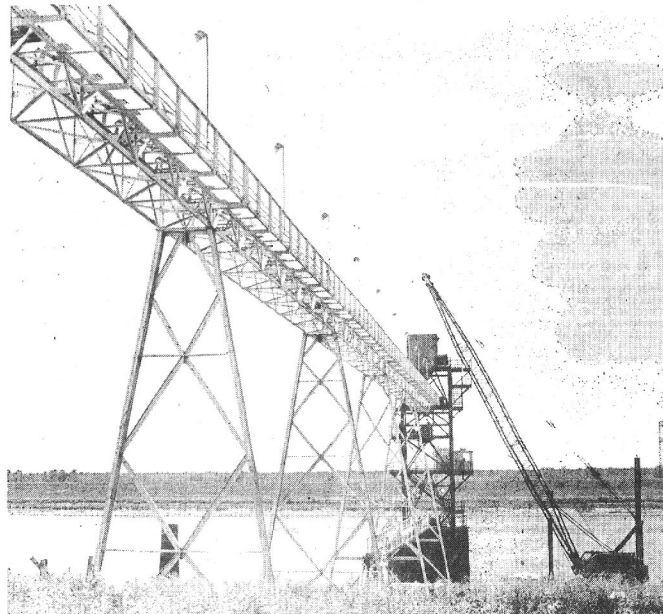

Farm machine operating cost

By RON CORNWELL
County Agricultural Adviser

Farmers often have the opportunity to do custom work for a neighbor. The main problem facing a person doing custom work only once or twice a year is what to charge for the service.

We have available at the Madison County Agricultural Extension Office a guide sheet on machinery cost to aid in determining a fair custom rate. The sheet lists various farming operations and an average cost for performing that operation.

It must be remembered that it lists current cost of performing various farming operations and is not a custom rate sheet. These figures can be used as a guide in helping determine a fair custom rate.

TELESCOPIC LOADING SPOUT is assembled above the Chain of Rocks Canal last week with the use of the large crane at right. The spout will be used in the transferring of grain mill products from a receiving bin east of the canal levee to waiting barges on the canal. An 800-foot conveyor system has been built between the two points. Products to be transferred from trucks and train cars to the barges include soybean pellets, soybeans, soda ash and sugar beet pellets. The conveyor system is capable of moving 750 tons of grain products per hour. The spout being constructed is telescopic to allow for the rise and fall of the water level within the range of 30 feet.

Births in area show 32% decrease during year

The number of births in the Quad-City area during the first five months of this year has declined sharply below those of the same period last year, according to statistics compiled by the Press-Record.

A vital statistics report by City Clerk Robert Stevens for the month of May recorded 69 births during that month, the same as 69 births reported in May 1977.

With that exception, the number of births since January has shown a substantial drop each month.

Stevens' report for May brought to 300 the total number of births during the five months of this year, a decline of 145, or 32 percent, below the 445 births occurring in the same period last year.

In January this year, the 52 births reported in the Quad-City area was a drop from 98 reported in the same month in 1977, and the 64 births in February was a decline of seven below the same month of the previous year.

During March, however, the 62 births reported in the area was a decline from 99 in the same month in 1977.

Vital statistics on which the figures are computed involve births or deaths occurring here and do not reflect those involving local residents but occurring elsewhere.

Mark 5:28 ... If I may touch but his clothes, I shall be whole.

Here is an outstanding example of faith. A sick woman, who had an issue of blood for twelve years, believed that if she but touched Jesus' garments, she would be healed. The story goes on to tell us that she touched his garment, and instantly she was healed.

Today you are more fortunate than this woman. You have only to pray in faith and believe, and you shall be whole. Whatever we receive from God is according to our OWN faith.

John's Gospel tells us: "Whosoever ye shall ask the Heavenly Father in my name, he will give it to you." (John 16:23)

Why not ask of Him? Today,

Plan for accountancy, family practice degree

The Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees has approved two new programs and also funding requests for two other programs for the 1979-80 fiscal year at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The requests are part of Resource Allocation and Management Program (RAMP) planning documents approved by the board. They will be submitted to the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) for consideration.

New programs approved are the bachelor of science in accountancy, School of Business, and the certificate program in family practice residency, School of Dental Medicine.

The university is requesting $68,900 in new state appropriations for the BS in accountancy and $61,500 for the dental school program.

The board also approved a funding request of $59,300 for the master of science in engineering program and $46,000 for the specialty certificate in pedodontics program in the School of Dental Medicine.

The SIU board deferred until July its consideration of guidelines for development of the complete RAMP request for 1979-80.

The request will be submitted in summary form at the board's September meeting and ultimately to the IBHE.

Guidelines will include salary and price increase rates, operating and maintenance funding rates, and special non-programmatic requests.

ASSAULTS BEEF IMPORTS
Illinois Director of Agriculture John R. Block said Thursday that the Carter Administration's decision to raise beef import quotas by 200 million pounds demonstrated a "lack of understanding of both the producers' and the consumers' problems." He said the impact of the president's action will be "insignificant" and "will result in no savings at the checkout counter."

Quad-City churches scene of spring weddings

Coral L. Atkinson is bride of David Rice

The wedding of Miss Coral L. Atkinson, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Atkinson, 204 Tennessee Ave., and David W. Rice, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Rice, 16 Shirwin Drive, was solemnized on May 27 at Tri-City Park Tabernacle Church.

White candelabra festooned with blue bows and holding burning tapers and bouquets of daisies and carnations provided the setting for the double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. performed by the Rev. Gordon Nelson.

Organist Marilyn Bernaix accompanied Susie Hartmann as she sang, "Wedding Prayer," "Wedding Song" and "It Seems I've Always Loved You."

Escorted down the white carpet aisle and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length white organza gown fashioned with a high neckline and oval yoke of Chantilly, etched with seed pearls and sequins.

Lace motifs accented the bishop sleeves and created the ruffle cuffs. A pleated flounce encircled the hemline of the skirt and chapel train.

Her fingertip veil bordered with wide scallop lace was attached to a Juliet cap of lace and seed pearls and she held a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, white daisies and carnations intermingled with baby's breath and tied with white satin ribbons.

Attending the bride as honor attendant was her sister, Miss Suzanne Atkinson. Bridesmaids included Miss Tina DeMott, Mrs. Kevin Fiala, a cousin of the bride, and Miss Mary Lou Fabry.

They were gowned alike in white polyester dresses embellished with blue and pink roses, created with lace bodices with scoop necklines, and lace sleeves.

Each attendant carried an arrangement of pink and white carnations, blue daisies and baby's breath with blue streamers.

They also were a halo of baby's breath in their hair. John Young served as best man with groomsmen Tim McGrath, Jim Young and John Whittenburg.

Ushers were Larry Atkinson, a cousin of the bride, and Mike Salmo.

Candlelighters were Trisha Atkinson, the bride's sister, and Sherrie Janulavich, a cousin of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Atkinson chose a formal beige gown designed with a sleeveless bodice, V-neckline and worn with a long sleeve chiffon coat.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Rice selected an off white dress trimmed with a multi-color braid and complemented with a matching flowing coat.

Terri Janulavich and Denise Johnson, cousins of the bride, presided over the guest book at a reception given at the Croatian Home and attended by 400 guests.

The rehearsal dinner was served at the Barrel Restaurant.

A 1975 graduate of Granite City High School North, the bride is presently attending Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville where she is majoring in physical education and business. She also is employed at Bulk Service Corp.

Holy Land tour meeting June 20

An opportunity to view brief and colorful films that give travelers to the Holy Land needed background will be provided by the Rev. Don F. Pierson on Tuesday, June 20, at 1:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. in the Nameoki Presbyterian Church. Don and Marion Pierson will be leading a 15 day Bible Lands Study Tour from Oct. 5-19. It will include Egypt, Jordan, and Israel. This will be the third trip for the Pastor of the Nameoki church.

Mrs. Pierson is president of the Quad-City Church Women United.

When asked about the safety factor, Rev. Pierson reflected that we do live in a world of terrorism, bombing, hijacking and kidnapping. However, visitors find it safe to walk the streets of Israel with greater safety than in most of America's major cities. For the first time in recent history, Israel's northern border has been cleared of terrorists with a United Nations peace-keeping force on duty, he added.

In addition, it must be remembered that for Israel, tourism is the number 1 industry. The entire country goes out of its way to protect this important source of income and employment. Then, too, the safety of tourists is the concern of the government and tourist-related businesses. The area today enjoys more stability than it has for years, according to the State Department. "I found it possible for my wife and son to walk the streets of this area with safety which would give me considerable

Recycling constraints to be fought

A nationwide campaign to revise regulations which constrain recycling at the state and municipal levels was announced today by the National Association of Recycling Industries.

The announcement came in conjunction with publication of a new industry booklet entitled "Recycling in Your Community: What State and Local Officials Can Do to Make Recycling More Effective."

The illustrated booklet points up a need for public support in urging state and municipal leaders to remove local-level legislation and regulations that inhibit recycling and to implement policies which encourage the recovery and recycling of metals, paper, textiles, rubber and other materials.

As the kickoff of the NARI Campaign, the booklet will be distributed by the association and its members to government leaders, community planning groups, educators, schools and the general public.

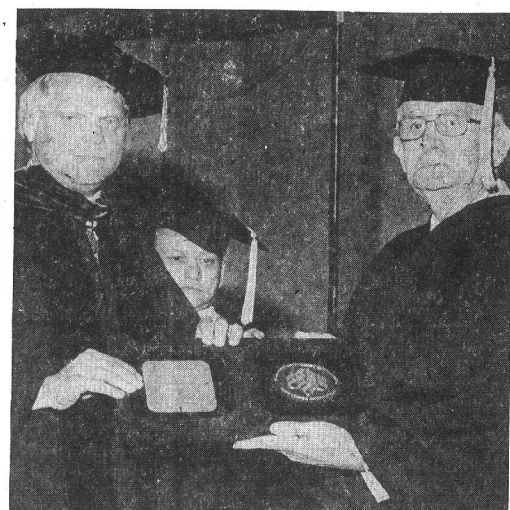

"The removal of counterproductive licensing, zoning, recordkeeping, and other regulations is essential if the recycling industry is to maximize its role in serving the country's energy, resource and solid waste management needs," said M. J. Mighdall, executive vice-president.

"It is also vital that government officials responsible for the development of resource recovery programs permit the private sector to provide its technical, operational and marketing expertise to assure the long-term success of these projects."

Treated at hospital

The autos of Loretta Gossnell, 2157 Delmar Ave., and Ernest Williams, 20 Lakeview Drive, Pontoon Beach, collided in the alley between the 1000 blocks of Grand Avenue and State Street this week, resulting in injuries to Mrs. Mary Weaver, 43, of 2717 Iowa St., a passenger in Williams' auto.

Mrs. Weaver, who bumped her forehead on the dashboard, was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital and was released.

Arrest cyclist

Gary A. Mathon, 21, of 125 Troeckler Lane, Mitchell, was charged with unlawful possession of marijuana and reckless driving after police stopped his motorcycle at Braden and Oakland avenues this week.

Police first were told a loud motorcycle was being driven up and down the street and when officers arrived, they found Mathon near a motorcycle.

They said he denied driving it, but three neighbors alleged Mathon was the driver. Officers searched him and alleged finding a plastic bag of marijuana in his pocket.

He was released at 3:10 a.m. Monday after posting $135 cash bond.
